London, June 9.—American marines have landed at Honan island to protect Christian college and the foreign residents, according to a dispatch to the Daily Express from Hongkong.

Serious fighting for Canton has been going on between the Cantonese and Yunnanese forces, the dispatch adds. Two hundred casualties are reported. The Yunnanese have appealed to the foreign consuls to send warships to end the fighting.

The Yunnanese accomplished the sinking of a Cantonese gunboat by bribing the crew of another gunboat in the enemy navy to fire at its companion vessel.

Honan island is in the Pearl river, across from the city of Canton. Christian college, an American missionary institution, is on the island. The four Americans shot by Chinese earlier in the day were attempting to cross from the island to Canton.

WASHINGTON NOT SURPRISED AT LANDING OF MARINES.

Washington, June 9.—The state department has received no information of the landing of marines at Honan island, but officials were not surprised at the reports, in view of the situation about Canton.

The marines, it was explained, act on their own discretion in such emergencies, wherever American lives and property are endangered. No orders have gone forward from here for the intervention.

Cable messages from Canton recently have been greatly delayed, it was pointed out as a probable reason for the lack of information here, sometimes taking 36 hours in transmission.

AMERICAN WOMAN WOUNDED BY CHINESE.

Hongkong, June 9.—Foreigners have been advised to leave Canton and many are already fleeing the city, following the shooting here Tuesday of four Americans by Yunnanese troops.

The Yunnanese, who are fighting the Cantonese forces, fired on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crampton and Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Ogden while the party was trying to go to Canton from Honan island aboard a launch flying the American flag.

Mrs. Crampton was wounded in the arm and the other members of the party were injured by splintered glass. The launch was riddled by the Yunnanese bullets. The Americans were forced to return to Honan island, where anti-foreign hostility is intense.

Mr. and Mrs. Ogden are from Orange, N. J.

Orange, N. J., June 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Ogden were active in Y. M. C. A. and religious work in the United States before sailing for China in April this year. Mr. Ogden went to Canton to take a position in the Christian college there. Mrs. Ogden was formerly Miss Nancy Hamilton, of Birmingham, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Crampton have been mentioned in letters received here from the Ogdens. Crampton

Harried, ridiculed, beaten and insulted at frequent intervals over a period of more than a year, until he feared for his life and in sheer desperation and mortal fear, he drew a .45-calibre automatic pistol and shot down James O. Stapp.

That was the defense Tuesday of Private Jim Herndon, Company I, Twenty-second United States infantry, before a general court-martial at Fort Meade, Md. It was sufficient. The court freed him on a manslaughter charge without asking the defense to produce a single shred of its evidence. On a motion of Major Gilbert Marshall, who conducted the defense, the court dismissed the charge and restored Herndon to his company.

Fifteen witnesses were produced by the prosecution, which was conducted by Lieutenant Colonel Charles H. Danford, of the air service, assisted

DEFENSE LAWYERS IN SCOPES CASE FINALLY CHOSEN

BOARD OF ADVISERS IS BEING PLANNED

Leading Scientists of Na-

Aid Battle Against Law in Tennessee.

By ROBERT D. LISK.

New York, June 9.—From the best legal talent of the nation, the defense of John T. Scopes, the youthful violator of the Tennessee law prohibiting the teaching of evolution, has selected the team of evolutionists, including Clarence Darrow, Bainbridge Colby, Dudley Field Malone and Samuel Rosensohn to act as associated counsel with Judge John R. Neal to carry on the fight against the state of Tennessee in the trial at Dayton.

Announcement of the legal staff, including the Chicago trial lawyer, who saved Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb from the gallows and the former secretary of state and a partner of Woodrow Wilson, was made late Tuesday after two days of conference among representatives of the American Civil Liberties union and the youthful biology teacher.

To Serve Without Pay.

It had been argued that Darrow's connection with the Chicago "intellectual" killers might injure the cause of the evolutionists should he be retained in the Dayton trial next month. Both Scopes and Neal, the former dean of the law school of the University of Tennessee and Scopes' personal counsel, however, favored his selection. The addition of Colby with his well-known dignity to the staff is likely to counteract any unfavorable impression that the Loeb-Leopold attorney might create.

The entire staff, as now selected, will serve without compensation. But, although Scopes aimed to select the best counsel available to him, it has become apparent that he does not expect to rest his case only upon brilliant legal experts. It is likely that a large advisory board, embracing scientific men, theologians and psychologists, will be picked to appear, if necessary, as witnesses against the state.

Hughes May Appear Later.

Professor Charles P. Davenport and James McKen Cattell, two noted psychologists, were called in for consultation Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborne, head of the American Museum of Natural History and one of the leading authorities on evolution, already has consented to serve on such an advisory board. Dr. Osborne has shown so much interest in the case in Dayton that he has declared his intention of dedicating to Scopes a scientific book which he now is preparing.

Should the case be carried to a

Durham, N. C., June 9.—Duke university's building fund was raised from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 today with the announcement of an additional $2,000,000 gift from James B. Duke.

The announcement was made by Dr. W. P. Few, president of the university, at a luncheon at which several hundred alumni were present. The visitors had come for the annual commencement exercises.

It was pointed out that the raising of the building fund from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 would place Duke university fifth among the universities of the United States insofar as building equipment is concerned. Only Yale, Harvard, Columbia and the University of Chicago would be in the lead, it was stated.

$9,750,000 Assets.

Including the present campus site and buildings to be erected, Duke university now lays claim to $9,750,000 in buildings, equipment and land.

Marked enthusiasm attended President Few's announcement. Original plans for Duke university's expansion called for an expenditure of $6,000,000, but developments have called for more than this and Mr. Duke has responded to the increased needs.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

As Seen by—
Pierre Van Paassen

New York, June 9.—They have a place in Greenwich Village called the Pirate's Den where you slip your tumbler of contraband seated on a keg.

A smoking oil lamp dangles from the low ceiling. Over in the corner on the buffet a couple of stubby tall candles flicker uncertainly. The waiters step around in heavy jackboots. In the bright-colored ash around their waists they carry wicked looking old-fashioned pistols, a poniard and some more shining cutlery. The place is situated in the cellar of an old house. To get there you must pass through a long passage where your footsteps sound metallic and the echo answers your frightened whispers. Three raps, two raps and two, a panel slides back in the wall to give the capo bandito a chance to look you over before he rattles his heavy bunch of keys and swings the iron-bound oaken door.

It's a gasping, sweltering, irritable city these days, of torrid heat. Park benches are crowded night and day.

The multitudes of the East Side camp on the streets. At night they lug bedding to the nearest park and lie around in wild and scattered confusion. Cops are on hand to keep order. All sense of decorum is thrown to the wind. That is if there is any wind. For even the nights bring no relief.

Dawn leaves the campers a mob of enervated, exhausted, sagging human beings.

Police reserves had to be called to handle the crowd in the Grand Central at noon when Jenny, a mongrel dog with the saddest and most world-wise eyes I ever saw made her way down to the subway platform, and there gave birth to four puppies.

A cop phoned the hospital. Two ambulances answered the call. Jenny went away in one, the puppies in the other. I discovered later in the day that Jenny was destroyed and that the puppies were put in charge of five motherless thoroughbreds at the Humane society shelter.

"She never knew the difference," said the superintendent.

New York is supposed to be the city of fastidious men. Even during these sweltering days people insist on form and form.

It was, therefore, with a little surprise that upon being admitted to the inner sanctum of a prominent syndicate writer I found that worthy stripped to the waist—writing an article on etiquette among the old Romans.

To my question: "What does this mean?" He replied: "O, just supplying the background for a paragraph in your column and if you must mention my fall from grace, please state that I am democratic and started in the approved New York style at the bottom, as a newsboy."

Everyone of the waitresses at a Fifth avenue restaurant wears a wedding ring, though not one of them is married. The management requires the girls to wear the token of matrimony to shy off the patron with a flirtatious turn of mind.

"Still," a fluff-haired maiden in smart white uniform confided to me, "they slip off easily when it's necessary. See! Nobody can handicap me when I think I have a chance."

MRS. MONTGOMERY OGDEN AND PARTY FIRED UPON

Having spent many years of her life in humanitarian work in various conflicts outside the limits of the United States, Mrs. Montgomery Ogden, sister of Mrs. Hugh M. Loke, of 92 East Fourteenth street, Atlanta, now is reported in press dispatches to have been injured while trying to go to Canton, China, from Honan island, in a launch flying an American flag.

The exact extent of Mrs. Ogden's injuries has not been learned here, but she has been visited often, but no dispatches have been received from the launch which was riddled by Yunnanese bullets and that other passengers were hurt by flying splinters and glass.

Mr. and Mrs. Ogden visited Dr. Hugh Loke and Mrs. Loke just before they left for the far east. This time, instead of pursuing Red Cross and scientific activities in which they were well known during the World war, they sailed for Canton, where Mrs. Montgomery was to take up his duties as a business agent in financing the Canton Christian college. The Ogden family, well-known and influential in New York, has been interested in this college.

SECURITY TREATY MUST BE MUTUAL, BRITAIN DECLARES

England's Policy of Isolation in Continental Affairs Is Terminated by Agreement.

BROADER IN SCOPE
THAN PACT OF 1839

Step Means League of Nations Will Be Real Guardian of Peace, London States.

Geneva, June 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—The subject of security took a new angle at Geneva today when Italy went on record as favoring the Franco-British-Belgian pact with Germany. Italy is temporarily excluded from this, but her spokesmen voiced the hope that she would be permitted to participate in a pact if extended and applied to all German frontiers.

The indications are that the entire problem of regional accords will be threshed out in September before the assembly of the league of nations when the Geneva protocol will be examined again.

Security Pact Strengthened.

The Italian position as explained by Signor Scialoja, former minister of foreign affairs, is that if Germany, as expected, will enter the league of nations, Italy, like others, will find that the general security which the covenant offers, has been strengthened by Germany's accession. Hence, he contended, whether Italy becomes a signatory of the pact does not loom up as vital for Italy, which might, however, conclude a special regional agreement with Germany. Signor Scialoja praised Great Britain's intervention in the present pact negotiations with Germany as helpful and conciliatory and calculated to increase the prospect of solidification of European peace.

M. Briand, the French foreign minister, said tonight that he planned to forward the allied note to Germany shortly after his return to Paris. German circles here are certain that the note will receive most careful attention, as Germany herself took the first step toward the negotiations.

Agreement Is Mutual.

The Germans remark that not enough insistence has been laid on the fact that the Rhine agreement will be mutual and bi-lateral in operation as between France and Germany, and that it can operate against France in case of French aggression, as well as against Germany under similar circumstances. They lay stress on the arbitration feature of the agreements which will complement the Rhine pact as regards both west and east and remark that although the Franco-British accord enjoin respect for treaties and agreements, the league of nations covenant nevertheless makes it possible for the assembly to examine treaties with a view to their revision.

The general impression in Geneva tonight is that with Great Britain definitely committed to help maintain peace in western Europe and the

30-Day Prison Term Is Given To Girl Driver

Young Woman's Plea Fails To Soften Heart of Recorder.

Despite fervent pleas of her attorney and testimony of circumstances which might have gained consideration for her under other charges, a young woman has been sentenced to serve a sentence of 30 days in the city stockade for violating the city's automobile traffic ordinances. Recorder Pro Tem Murphy Holloway has placed himself on record as being firmly determined to treat men and women in the same category when they appear on traffic law charges.

The woman gave her name to police as Mrs. Hazel Hayes, but she also is known, police assert, as Hazel Harman and Hazel Williams. She admitted on the stand that she was drunk when the automobile in which she was riding with E. L. Hayes, 34, struck a truck driven by Tom Jackson, negro, of 280 Chapel street, and Hayes also admitted he was intoxicated. Each, however, declared that a mysterious third person, also a woman, was driving the car, but fled before officers reached the scene. Mrs. Hayes also was bound over to the grand jury and her bond fixed at $300. Hayes escaped with a fine of $25 and costs.

Testimony produced by police was to the effect that immediately following the heavy storm Monday night the automobile which caused the distress of the young woman and her male companion was proceeding down Piedmont avenue, north, and at the Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists Will Form One Great Body in Canada.

DECISION AFFECTS
2,500,000 PEOPLE

Merger Will Join 8,771
Congregations — New Body To Be Called United Church of Canada.

Toronto, June 9.—Three great churches in Canada Wednesday will take the greatest step toward protestant unity since the time of Martin Luther.

The Canadian organizations of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches will give up their individual existence by merging into one great protestant religious body to be known as the United Church of Canada, comprising about 2,500,000 adherents, and 8,771 congregations.

Hereafter, in hundreds of Canadian cities, towns and villages, three congregations which have operated three separate churches will join in Christian worship under one roof.

Details Completed.

The last details of this important development were worked out this week in Toronto. The general assembly of the 50-year-old Presbyterian church of Canada has held its last session.

Methodists and Congregationalists from all over the whole dominion are now meeting separately to wind up their affairs, and take leave of the churches of their fathers. Wednesday morning will find about 1,500 delegates gathered in the huge Toronto arena to participate in the institution of the new United church. From separate entrances, with dignity and ceremony of delegates and visitors from the three bodies—the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, the conference of the Methodist church and the union of the Congregationalists—will enter. The representation will be proportional, with 120 from each of the two larger forces, the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, and 50 from the Congregational church. These will assist in constituting the new church, and the heads of each delegation will sign the basis of union, which includes the doctrinal statement and general policy.

Long In Developing.

The movement has been developing for 20 years, urged partly by a strong desire for Christian cooperation and partly by economic difficulties in maintaining three separate institutions throughout the widely scattered sections of the dominion. The Baptists decided not to participate.

The suggestion embodying the union idea came first from the Presbyterians, the only church that eventually divided on the question. It was in 1902 that the proposition of joining forces was transmitted by the Presbyterians to the Methodists. For years there has been no dissenting voice heard from either Methodists or Congregationalists, but three years ago serious disputes among Presbyterians arose over the working out of the details. The result has been

S. Arkwright.

When a large delegation of second ward citizens protested proposed removal of street car tracks on Washington street at a hearing Tuesday before the electric and other railways committee of city council, Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company, withdrew the petition.

Mr. Arkwright's action followed a stormy session at which a number of citizens, headed by the ward's three councilmanic representatives and members of the county commission, entered protests in answer to the power company's contentions as to why the tracks should be removed.

"I am convinced that a majority of people in the affected district are opposed to removal of tracks on Washington street," Mr. Arkwright said, in withdrawing the petition, "and the street railway company has no desire to deprive residents of service in sections where it really is needed. Therefore, I wish to withdraw the petition asking elimination of service and removal of car tracks on parts of Washington street."

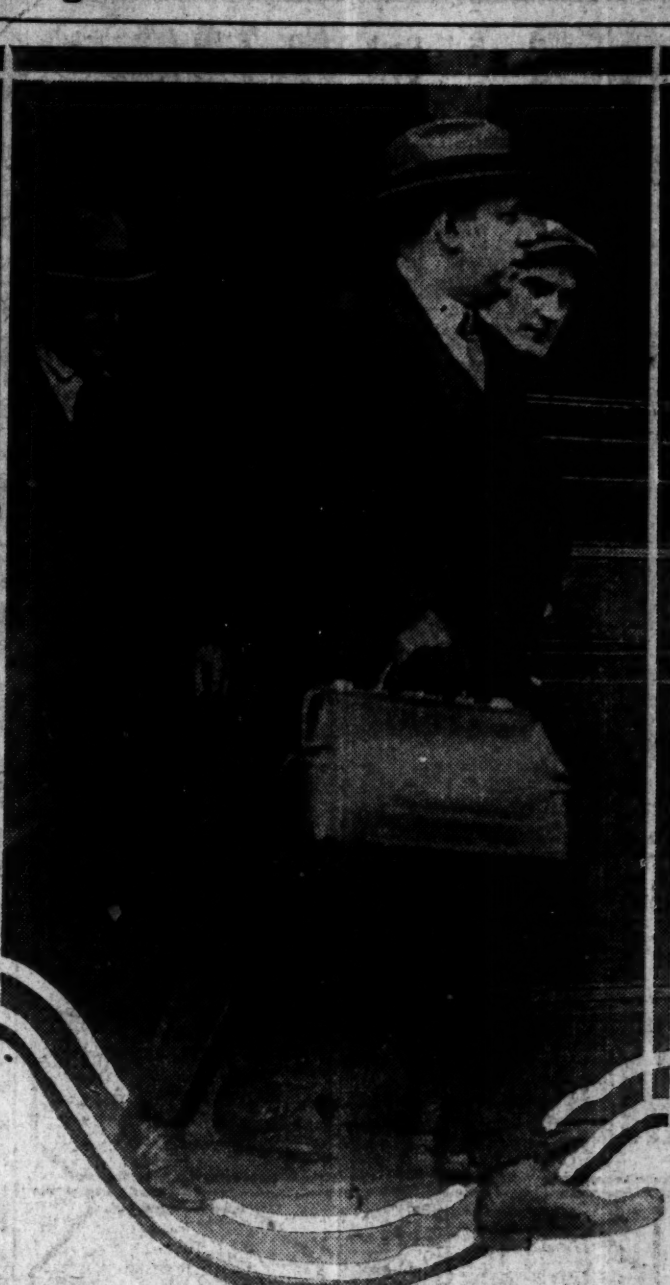

Remove Other Tracks.

Mr. Arkwright stated, however, that the company will ask that tracks on parts of Central avenue which serve the same section as the Washington street line be removed and the hearing probably will be held at the next meeting of the committee.

"The street railway company is in a bad fix and its condition is partially caused by unnecessary expenditures in maintenance of too many tracks," Mr. Arkwright stated in opening his arguments.

"Removal of some tracks in sections where adequate service is provided by other lines would save us the cost of maintenance; would mean a longer life for paving on the streets in question, and would permit us to operate an improved and more economic service on other lines. However, the people protest whether we wish to remove tracks or to lay new ones."

"Within the last few months, we have placed 20 new cars in the system, and only today we placed orders for 40 more. We want to make riding an attraction, and in order to make it as comfortable as possible,

Frustration of what officials at the Atlanta federal penitentiary believe was the beginning of a large "shake down" ring involving a mammoth prison intrigue to relieve wealthy new arrivals of vast sums of money for which they were to receive "soft" and easy jobs and assignments while they served terms in the Atlanta institution was revealed Tuesday.

Quick action on the part of Warden John W. Snook and other officials completely crushed the extortion effort. Charles W. Hoffritz, self confessed leader and instigator of the scheme, has lost 336 days of good time, has already been in solitary confinement on restricted diet for five days and will not be eligible for consideration for parole until March 16, 1926. Hoffritz is a former vice president of the American Finance company, of Dayton, Ohio. He is serving a four-year term for using the mails to defraud, having been sentenced November 17, 1924. He was a runner in the front corridor of the prison. This is considered a "good job."

Austin Montgomery, former president of the Community Finance company, of New York, who forfeited a $75,000 bond when he fled to Canada to escape prosecution and later was nabbed by government agents, is $5,000 richer on account of the disclosure of the "shake-down" scheme. Mrs. Augusta C. Montgomery, his wife, is reported to have revealed the effort on the part of the alleged gang headed by Hoffritz to obtain $5,000, upon payment of which Montgomery was to get an "easy job." Montgomery entered the prison about six weeks ago and the approach was made soon afterward, it was stated.

Wife was to Pay.

The plan was to have Mrs. Montgomery pay agents of the Hoffritz gang the money, which, according to the report to Montgomery, was to be divided among "several." None of the fund was to be handled in any way at the prison, and, therefore, no record of its transfer would be left. The money never was paid.

Mrs. Montgomery reported the entire affair to Warden Snook and Hoffritz was called in to answer to the charges. Confronted by Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery, he is said to have confessed a plan to sell easy jobs, and involved several others.

The plan, as outlined by Hoffritz,

Light Opera Stars Continue Intensive Rehearsal Plan

Atlanta's Municipal Light Opera company swung back Tuesday night to a new program of rehearsals for "The Mikado," the opening production to be presented next week. Four days of rehearsal had put "The Prince of Pilsen," scheduled for the week of June 22, in such excellent form that Conductor Paul Slater declared it could easily be perfected in afternoon rehearsals next week while "The Mikado" is being sung every night and on Saturday afternoon. "Preparation for this season is beset with less difficulty than for any series of light operas with which I have been connected," Lew Morton, stage director and veteran light opera producer, asserted, "by virtue of the fact that all principals have sung practically all the roles in which they are cast here and were entirely at home in the music, lines and situations before they began rehearsals."

ATLANTA DENTISTS TO ATTEND MEET OF STATE SOCIETY

Atlanta will send a large delegation to the fifty-seventh annual convention of the Georgia State Dental society, which will be held June 10, 11 and 12 in Augusta.

Among Atlantans presenting scientific papers at the convention are Dr. M. D. Huff, on "Oral Roentgenology," Dr. John L. Smeltzer, "Vincent's Infection," Dr. H. Harvey Payne, "Some Cases of Mal-occlusion Which Might Have Been Prevented," Dr. T. M. Hair, "Full Denture Construction," and Dr. S. L. Silverman, "Alcohol Injection for Trigeminal Neuralgia."

Dr. S. W. Foster, president-elect of the American Dental association, will deliver an address.

Officers of the society are Dr. C. M. Barnwell, of Atlanta, president; Dr. N. G. Slaughter, of Athens, president-elect; Dr. F. C. Wilson, of Savannah, vice president; Dr. Witherpoon Wallace, of Atlanta, treasurer, and Dr. G. A. Mitchell, of Atlanta, secretary.

Members of the company were to receive their costumes for "The Mikado" either today or tomorrow, the entire lot, insured for a sum that is written in five figures, having been sent by express from New York early in the week.

Rehearsals for "The Mikado," with occasional reviews of "The Prince of Pilsen," will continue the rest of this week with a view to making the opening production a most effective triumph.

"The Mikado" has been sung so often in Atlanta that we want to make it a standard of measurement by which the public can gauge the real excellence of this company," C. B. Bidwell, general manager, explained.

While rehearsals are in progress behind closed doors at the old Spring Street church, the entire auditorium of which is used as a stage, electricians are at work installing a new cooling system in the City Auditorium. Army where the performances are to be held.

ELECTRICITY VICTIMS BURIED ON TUESDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Max Pollock and her 12-year-old daughter, Edith, victims Monday of charged electrical wires, were held Tuesday afternoon from the residence, 133 Capitol avenue, with Rabbi A. P. Holmes and Rev. A. Selakey officiating. Interment was in Oakland cemetery.

Mrs. Pollock is survived by her husband, owner of a shoe repairing shop on Decatur street; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Tannebaum and Lily Pollock, and a son, Herman Pollock. Lily and Herman are twins.

The mother and daughter were electrocuted when a clothes line, on which the daughter was hanging clothes, came in contact with a wire carrying 110 volts of electricity. The mother died in an effort to tear her daughter from the burning wire.

Josie Tidwell, a negro woman, was burned severely about the hands and arms while dragging the two from the wire. The snapping of the clothes line saved her, in all probability, from a like fate.

SPRATLIN TRIAL IN DEKALB TODAY

Decatur, Ga., June 9.—(Special.)—A second attempt by Jack Spratlin, alleged stickup man, to escape from DeKalb county jail since his incarceration here, was reported by county authorities today, on the eve of his trial on a charge of robbery, which is expected to open Wednesday in DeKalb superior court. Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, will preside, and Claude Smith, solicitor general of the circuit, will prosecute the case.

Spratlin escaped from Barrow county jail several months ago, when he was serving a sentence for robbery of Poole & Davies company, Atlanta. He was lodged in the Atlanta jail recently on charges of holding up and robbing Sam Schoen, of 13 Oakdale road.

The most recent attempt to escape was about two weeks ago, when he and six other cellmates attempted to dig out of the prison. It was foiled by attendants.

Spratlin is alleged to have been the brains behind the attempted wholesale blinding of DeKalb county jail officials in another trial at freedom. This occurred May 5, and three bottles of acid and six saws were found concealed in bunks in cells of the prison. Officials searched following a tip.

After being confined for a time in the Atlanta jail, Spratlin was transferred to DeKalb county jail. Several saws in the lining of his clothes, and one bar was sawed out of his cell there, according to reports.

BURGLAR SUSPECT SUBDUED BY GUN AFTER STRUGGLE

An alleged burglar surrendered Tuesday to the persuasion of a shotgun in the hands of J. C. Horn, 92 Kennedy street, after both barrels had been emptied in his direction. Horn succeeded in holding the negro intruder at bay until police arrived.

The negro, who Horn stated had been ransacking the home of A. M. Smith, 122-A Kennedy street, during the absence of the family, was taken to police headquarters by Patrolmen J. A. Wright and Jack Williams and jailed on a charge of burglary. Bond was fixed at $5,000. The negro gave the name of Andrew Richardson, 20, of 18 Julian street.

Richardson was seen climbing through a side window at the Smith home shortly before noon Tuesday by Mrs. E. F. Thompson, of 111 Kennedy street. Mrs. Thompson immediately notified Horn, who came to the scene with a shotgun.

Horn concealed himself within sight of the window and, when the negro crawled out, ordered him to halt. When Richardson fled, Horn emptied both barrels at him and then pursued. The negro surrendered after a short chase and waited for the arrival of police.

STATE ENJOINED. IN TAX TANGLE

A section of the general tax act of 1918, and a section of amendments in 1919 and 1923, relative to payment of taxes by contractors and construction companies, is unconstitutional and therefore, null and void, according to a ruling Tuesday by Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court.

Judge Thomas ruled construction companies are not required to pay one-tenth of 1 per cent of contracts in taxes, and contractors working outside of contracts are not required to pay one-tenth of the cost of the work, as the amended laws require.

The decision was based on a petition for a permanent injunction brought by the Pittman Construction company and others against W. S. Richardson, Fulton county tax collector, and John M. Vandiver, commissioner of revenue. Petitioners asked that these officials be restrained from collecting taxes as provided in acts of the Georgia legislature. The permanent injunction was allowed.

Attorney General George M. Napier was allowed to take the case to the supreme court on a writ of supersedeas. It was set out in the petition that the taxes were confiscatory and not uniform.

15,000 Kiddies on Annual Outing

MILLER DECISION EXPECTED TODAY

Argument of counsel in the hearing before the Georgia Securities commission on the question of revocation of license for G. L. Miller & Co., really bond house, was in progress Tuesday afternoon when the session adjourned until 9:15 o'clock this morning.

Reuben R. Arnold, of counsel for the Miller company, had completed his argument. John Westmoreland will make his speech this morning and Harold Hirsch will close for the defense.

The hearing is on a rule nisi issued by the commission and calling on the Miller company to show cause why its license to do business in this state should not be revoked. The rule was issued following charges of misrepresentation and fraud in the financing of the Wynne-Claughton building and the St. Andrews apartments, two Atlanta buildings, financed through bond issues of the Miller company, owned by the Wynne-Claughton company and built by A. V. Gude & Co. G. Lloyd Preacher & Co. were architects for both buildings and all these concerns are named as defendants in a suit for receivership filed in Fulton court against the two buildings on behalf of the state of Georgia.

Charges of fraud are based on an investigation conducted by T. B. Conner, chief examiner for the securities commission. Since filing of the original suit the Miller company has secured a temporary injunction restraining Mr. Conner from giving

"derogatory statements" against company and interventions have been made in the receivership suits on be- half of creditors of the two buildings.

Hearing on the court litigation is scheduled for Thursday before Judge E. D. Thomas of Fulton superior court.

The Georgia court of appeals cited an old rhyme in a decision handed down Tuesday. The case was that of Carpenter vs. the state of Georgia, in which a new trial was sought on the ground, among others, that the wife of a juror was related to the wife of the prosecutor. But the court cited:

"The groom and bride each comes within
The circle of the other's kin;
But kin and kin are still no more
Related than they were before."

The new trial plea was refused and Carpenter will have to serve his sentence of from three to five years after conviction for voluntary manslaughter.

Prisoners Thank Constitution for Airplane 'Stunts'

Thanks to The Constitution, prison officials and members of the famous Constitution Flying circus as contained in the June issue of Good Words, official organ of the Atlanta federal penitentiary. This expression is for the presentation of the "air show" staged by The Constitution for the benefit of more than 3,100 prisoners. Many other timely articles are contained in the little paper, edited by former Governor William T. McCray, of Indiana, and which is just off the press.

The story of the air show is headed "A Treat With Thrills" and tells of the skillful piloting of Clyde Pangborn and Jack Ashcraft and the daredevil stunts of Diavolo Krantz, stunt man, who daily flirts with death in entertaining thousands in all parts of the country.

Warden John W. Snook and Deputy Warden Julian A. Schoen allowed the prisoners an hour's freedom to witness the "stunts" of the flying show performers.

Another interesting story of prison life tells of the wedding of E. F. Day and Mrs. Almida Allread in the warden's office on May 6. This is the first wedding ever to be performed behind the walls of the local prison.

Along the line of diversified industries at the prison is an account of the building of a new walnut desk for Mr. Snook's office by George Hodgy. Mr. Snook and Superintendent of Prisoners Luther C. White are planning to ask congress to allow the establishment of other industries at the prison in addition to the duck mill.

Cigarette Tax Case Decision Is Upheld By Court of Appeals

Fulton superior court was upheld Tuesday by the court of appeals in its ruling for the defendant in the case of Lightenstein vs. the State.

The defendant was charged with selling cigarettes to the consumer without affixing state revenue stamps to the container. It was held, however, that only one sale of a single carton of cigarettes had been established by the prosecution and that the stamp tax law applies only to "those engaged in the business of selling cigarettes at retail to the consumer." It was held that a single sale did not establish that the defendant was "engaged in the business of selling to the consumer."

M'Lendon LEAVES BOARD OF EDUCATION

C. J. McLendon, who was serving the last year of his term as a member of the board of education, tendered his resignation at Tuesday's meeting of the board to become effective at once.

Mr. McLendon stated that he plans to move from Atlanta in the near future and will not be here to complete his term which would have ended January 1, 1926. He had served as school commissioner from the tender of almost two years, having been elected by city council to fill a vacancy.

Mr. McLendon has resided here for many years and was assistant manager of the Dixie Electric company.

His successor will be elected by council at the first meeting in July as notification how many will be liberated cannot be given until next Monday and the election cannot be held until two weeks after that time.

Mr. McLendon's resignation causes the third vacancy on the board this year, H. J. Penn, of the fifth ward, having previously resigned, while A. C. Meixell, his ward representative, died some time ago.

Paroles Relieve Pen Congestion, Officials Assert

Paroles are arriving at Atlanta federal penitentiary at the rate of about 15 a day, it was announced Tuesday by John W. Snook, warden, and these are relieving the congested conditions there to some degree, at least, it was pointed out. A total of 177 were recommended for parole at the meeting of the board which completed its work about May 1.

The total count Tuesday stood at 3,194, a drop of 22 from the high total of 3,216 of about a week ago. No announcement has been received of the number of the recommendations which have been given the approbation of Attorney General J. S. Sargent, and therefore, it is impossible to determine how many will be liberated as a result of the work of the board.

A determined effort on the part of prison officials to secure the passage of measures to relieve the congestion at the Atlanta institution was announced by Luther C. White, superintendent of prisons of the United States, while he attended the meeting of the parole board here.

Warden Snook, Mr. White and Dr. A. F. Quillian, prison physician, were members of the Atlanta prison parole board.

THE SOUTHERN SERVES THE SOUTH

Whose interest in the Southern is greatest?

We who are devoting our lives in the service of this railroad like to call it ours.

The investors who have put their faith and money into it to make it an efficient transportation machine—they speak of it as theirs.

And you who travel on it, whose goods it carries, and whose business depends on its regular service day in and day out—are you not entitled to call it yours?

We all have a feeling of pride and proprietorship in the Southern, and it is through the cooperative efforts of all of us that it has come to be the great railway system that it is.

This spirit will build a greater Southern to serve a greater South.

Underwood May Open Fight For Sharp Tax Reductions In Alabama Speech Friday

Senator May Declare for Surtax Rate of 15 Per Cent — Party Dividend Over Issue.

Washington, June 9.—(Special.)—When Senator Underwood, of Alabama, makes his speech next Friday night at Montgomery in which he will advocate a sharp reduction in the surtaxes, he will open the campaign for a non-partisan measure, which will be introduced when congress assembles in December, or before, if an extraordinary session is called.

It is understood that the democrats of the Underwood and Glass school believe they can cut the income tax in half in the higher brackets and still collect all the revenue needed. At the same time they contend that the iron heel will be taken off the breast of business and that men of large incomes will in reality pay a larger proportion of the cost of government than they now contribute.

Whether it is possible to obtain assent to a non-partisan adjustment of the tax problem remains to be seen, though it appears to be very attractive to the few democrats who continue to endure the oppressive heat of the capital. But all apparently agree that the present law must be modified, that business must be made freer and that some system should be devised to induce citizens in control of billions of capital to invest in something besides tax exempt securities.

Seeks Equitable Law.

In his speech on Friday Senator Underwood is expected to say that a maximum tax of 15 per cent will produce more revenue but it will more equitably distribute the burdens of carrying on the great enterprise of governing the United States.

It cannot be denied that there is some substantial opposition to Senator Underwood's views among the members of his own party, but all accept the doctrine that a change must come and should come speedily.

Men of the Underwood school of economic thought unite with others in declaring that the present income tax law is responsible in a large measure for the present slump in business. From every section the cry comes of slackening speed in industry and it is claimed that the immense slice which Uncle Sam demands from each melon that is cut has caused the disappearance of thousands of melons of huge proportions and filled the fields with juice.

Farm Market Depressed.

Capital is timid, industry is by no means optimistic and in spite of the better prevailing prices for corn and wheat the farm market is in an exceedingly depressed condition. It is contended that one means of putting heart into industry is to encourage the disappearance of thousands of melons of huge proportions and filled the fields with juice.

It may be too much to hope for a full agreement between the leaders of the democratic and republican parties on this matter, said Representative A. H. Gasque, of South Carolina, "but the democrats would do well to be prepared with a bill which will prove acceptable to the nation. I think if we were to cut the higher brackets in half we would collect all needed revenue and make conditions better for labor, agriculture and industry."

Mr. Gasque has never been accused of any affiliations with the so-called special interests. It is expected that a number of prominent citizens of Georgia will attend the Montgomery meeting.

GRANT IS NEW HEAD OF LOCAL ATLANTES

Two new members—Winfield P. Jones, Atlanta attorney, and T. Taylor Peake, electrical engineer—were introduced. Will V. Zimmer, vice president of the club, presided.

Legionnaires Praise Officer Who Halted 'Desecration of Flag'

Patrolman E. C. Robertson, who Saturday morning arrested three Atlanta youths on charges of desecrating the American flag, has been invited to be the honor guest at the American Legion luncheon at 12:30 o'clock Friday at the chamber of commerce.

In a letter to Councilman Ed H. Inman, chairman of the police committee of council, the officer is warmly congratulated for his action by W. A. Simon, commander of Argonne Post No. 1, American Legion.

The three men were arrested when Officer Robertson charged that they knocked a flag from a staff on Peachtree street and that the flag was dragged behind the car. They later were found guilty of disorderly conduct. Harvey McLean, one of the men, stated that no disrespect was meant to the flag but explained the incident by saying that he simply had reached to take the flag and had knocked it to the ground accidentally.

GEORGIAN RESCUED FROM OHIO RIVER IN SUICIDE EFFORT

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 9.—Missing

death from the heat last Thursday, Edgar Cornelison, aged 19, Tipton, Ga., again was at the general hospital today as a result of his attempt to end his life in the Ohio river. Roy Tuckett, 28, 95 Riverside drive, rescued Cornelison from the river at the risk of losing his own life. Cornelison was taken to the hospital Thursday after being overcome by the heat.

He expressed a wish to die, physicians say. After his release Monday he took a street car to the river. Tuckett followed him, and seeing him preparing to end his life, dived into the eddy and after several desperate attempts succeeded in securing a hold on the Georgia lad and carried him to the river bank and notified the police. The lad declined to give the names of his relatives and search will be made at Atlanta for friends of the would-be suicide who it seems has been discouraged from lack of employment. The city hospital doctors tonight said that they believed that the heat stroke of last Thursday had weakened Cornelison's mind and caused him to resolve to take his life.

BOY BREAKS ARM IN BALL-THROWING CONTEST WITH PALS

Forrest, Ga., June 9.—(Special.)—Jack Clark, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Clark, had the misfortune to break his right arm Monday afternoon while throwing a ball. He, with several companions, was experimenting as to how far he could throw a ball, and it is thought that the lightness of the ball contributed to the breaking of his arm.

The fracture was between the elbow and shoulder, and the snapping of the bone was heard by his companions.

In the charges of T. B. Conner, Chief Examiner, Georgia Securities Commission, against G. L. MILLER & COMPANY, it was alleged by Mr. Conner in connection with these charges that a certain house located on Bonaventure Avenue was sold by Mr. G. L. Miller to Mr. Morgan T. Wynne and was a part of the financing of the Saint Andrews Apartments at Eleventh and West Peachtree Streets. The above charge has been PROVEN FALSE. The facts brought out at the hearing were that the house was sold to one of the companies controlled by Mr. A. V. Gude, who in turn several months later, sold same to the Wynne-Claughton Realty Sales Corporation, of which Mr. Wynne is the president. Both were legal transactions for valuable considerations. The house was said to have cost Mr. Miller $6,000.00, and that Mr. Miller realized $15,000.00 on the sale. The house has been appraised at nearly its purchase price of $15,000.00

It has been shown that the purchase of the Augusta property was a legal transaction between G. L. Miller and the Wynne-Claughton Company. All transactions being above board and above reproach.

U. S. Agricultural Bureau Amends Cotton Trade Rule To Reduce Transfer Units

Delivery on Future Contracts Cut from 100 to 25 Bales in New Order Department.

Washington, June 9.—(Special.)—Amendments to regulations under the United States cotton futures act, reducing the transfer unit of certified cotton between markets for delivery on future contracts from 100 bales to 25 bales, effective June 15, were announced today by Acting Secretary of Agriculture R. W. Dunlap.

Other changes in the regulations provide for the establishment of a board of cotton examiners at Houston, Texas, an exchange inspection bureau for the Chicago Board of Trade and for the sale of practical forms of the universal cotton standards.

Reduce Transfer Unit.
The substance of the amendments announced by the department is as follows:
The last sentence of Section 2 of regulation 11 has been amended to read:

"No single request for supervision of transfer shall cover both cotton of which the classification has been reviewed and that of which the classification has not been reviewed; nor shall the same request cover both transferable and non-transferable cotton; and no single request shall include more than 25 bales."

This will reduce the transfer unit from 100 to 25 bales.
Section 5 of this regulation has been amended by striking out the requirement that transferred cotton shall be delivered at the place of storage at destination not later than 3 p. m. on the second day preceding the day set for delivery.

Section 6 also is amended to require that the identity of the transfer cotton covered by the transfer certificate shall be preserved unbroken for examination at destination, except as to those bales represented by single bale storage or press receipts.

Fee Is Stipulated.
Section 3 of regulation 13 has been amended to provide for a fee of 5c per bale for the transfer of the certificate on a single bale warehouse receipt to another single bale warehouse receipt, when made necessary by the transfer of the cotton from one place of storage to another under the supervision of an exchange inspection bureau.

Section 4 of regulation 13 as amended fixes the fee for the review of the classification of cotton certified by boards of cotton examiners at 20c a bale. The exception with reference to the change of classification of more than 10 per centum of the bales in any one certificate has been omitted.

Paragraph 1, Section 1 of regulation 16 has been revised to make it clear that practical forms for length of staple are available for 14 and 14-inch American Egyptian cotton. In paragraph 2 (a), an exception is inserted to provide that the practical forms, stored, protected, and preserved in accordance with the agreements for the adoption of universal standards, may be used for such periods as may be prescribed in those agreements.

Form Costs Also Fixed.
Section 2 of regulation 16 has been amended to provide that the cost of any of the practical forms of the universal standards for grade and color shall be at the rate of $5 f. o. b. Washington, D. C., and for shipments outside the United States $6.25, delivered at destination. These costs will likewise apply in cases where new samples are furnished in replacement of old samples in a box of the practical forms returned to the department for the purpose, except that when the number of new samples so furnished is five or less in one box the cost will be at the rate of 40c for each sample.

It is also provided that the cost of the practical forms of the official cotton standards of the United States for length of staple shall be at the rate of $1 f. o. b. Washington, D. C., for shipments within the continental United States and $1.25 for each delivered at destination for shipments outside the continental United States.

Detective L. H. Satterfield, summoned to the scene, said he arrived just in time to see the young woman dashing for a street car in an effort to escape. She was overhauled and placed under arrest.

A fervent plea for the woman was made by Attorney John B. Hazel, who said her husband was so ill in a hospital that he was expected to die within thirty days. His client, he also said, is most desirous of keeping her escape from the knowledge of her parents and for that reason has steadfastly declined to tell police her address.

"I am not going to make any distinction between men and women when they come before me under such serious circumstances," Recorder Holloway said. "If this woman's husband dies within thirty days I shall go to the mayor and personally see that she is allowed to attend the funeral."

Win or Fail Today

Today is the last that you will be asked to purchase half dollars coined in honor of the soldiers of the south. Atlanta's quota of 200,000 must be disposed of today by the committee which is conducting the campaign in behalf of the memorial to the Confederacy now in process of construction on the face of Stone Mountain. Each half dollar sells for one dollar, and half of the sales price will go into the fund of the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association to be used to finance the noble project.

There is no alternative to the cleanup today. The campaign for their sale will come to an end with the close of the day's work. The coins will be on sale at banks afterward, but the opportunity to register full appreciation and understanding to match the spirit of the north will not come thus again. It must be done today or forever forgotten.

It is extremely difficult to add to the appeals which already have loosened the purse strings of this city in magnificent fashion. The fact that this coin was authorized by a republican congress and signed by a republican president from one of the most northern of the states, has been driven home many times. The spirit of generosity pervading the entire procedure of coinage has been dwelt upon, so it seems rather useless to do that all over again.

It seems rather strange that Atlanta should need constant reminding that this drive to sell 200,000 coins may fail, and perhaps those who think such reminding is necessary are wrong. However, the fact remains that there are a very great many unsold coins waiting for the last minute purchaser to take them. It has become a matter of individual interest; there is not an individual living in the city of Atlanta who should not ask himself why he has not one of the coins if he has not.

When I alighted I asked the furious chauffeur if he liked her job and if she was not afraid to answer late calls. "It's far more dangerous to go to one of these dance halls unescorted than to go on late calls," she said quietly.

As she spoke with such evident culture, I ventured a few more questions. The young lady said she was a graduate of a southern college, but she dropped with hubby had invested in a taxicab. by First Lieutenant Seward W. Hulst, of the Quartermaster corps. They constituted mostly eyewitnesses to the bloody tragedy which took place on the night of May 20 last, when Herndon, a member of the guard that night, drew a weapon with which he was armed as Stapp approached him in the guardhouse and killed him.

Persecution Alleged.
The trial was only a story of intense persecution, starting when ill-feeling grew up between Stapp and Herndon following a game of cards at Camp McCallum, Ala., last August. A first fight, in which Herndon was the loser, followed that game, and subsequent developments constitute a narrative of verbal and physical attacks upon Herndon by Stapp. At least that was the evidence adduced at the court-martial.

Slender, well-groomed, extremely nervous, Herndon listened to 15 fellow members of Company I, of which Stapp also had been a member, detail events leading up to the night when he became a killer.

Sergeant Pritchard, of Company I, who was sergeant of the guard the night Stapp was slain, told of the shooting.

Details Are Related.
Stapp entered the guardhouse office, where the guard was assembling for relief, Sergeant Pritchard said. He had his right hand thrust into his hip pocket and no sooner had he taken a few steps into the room than the building roared with the discharge of Herndon's pistol. Stapp collapsed and fell backward out the door, the sergeant said. Herndon was disarmed and ordered into a cell. The victim of the shooting was dead when the post physician arrived.

Subsequent testimony dealt with alleged animosity between the two men during the company's stay at Camp McCallum, Ala., and after Stapp had been discharged.

Sergeant James C. Pierce, a square-jawed, bearded and seamed soldier, one of the old timers without a doubt, told the court he had been detailed on May 20 to escort Stapp from Company I barracks where he had been making himself objectionable.

"I found Stapp in the barracks and told him what had come to do," said the sergeant. "and he did not protest. He went along very nicely, but he told me on the way to the gate that he would get that man here or get him there."

Sergeant Pierce said he had no doubt that Herndon was the man indicated.

Stapp Intoxicated.
Stapp was always disagreeable when he was drinking, which was rather often, witnesses testified, and added that Stapp had been drinking on the day he lost his life.

This was only the first of a series of witnesses who testified to threats which had been made against Herndon by Stapp and one witness even went so far as to say he heard Stapp declare that he would kill Herndon surely if it was the last thing he ever did. None of these men knew just why Stapp should be so desirous of killing Herndon, but all indicated it to be their belief that Stapp was abnormal and had a passion for annoying Herndon when drinking.

Several witnesses, including the two sergeants, said they had seen Stapp with a blackjack in his hands on the afternoon of May 20, but this, it developed, was taken from Stapp by Private Dixon at the fort's fire station. He did not have it when he was shot and, in fact, every person who was present at his death, testified he did not have a weapon of any description.

Corporal Ralph Holcomb, of company I, testified that Stapp had snatched up a holstered pistol in company I barracks on the day he was shot and in the presence of Herndon, but it was snatched from his grasp by another private before he could pull it from its sheath.

Herndon Assaulted.
Stapp deliberately assaulted Herndon on the afternoon of May 19, the day before he was shot, according to several witnesses. Herndon, according to this testimony, had walked member of the organization was substituted.

Grads Given Coins.

As each graduate of Emory university received his diploma Tuesday he also was the recipient of a Confederate Memorial coin, with Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright as the donor.

The coins were beautifully mounted in a special folder inscribed on the front with the words, "Memorial to the Valor of the Soldiers of the South."

Inside was the following tribute to the Confederacy and an exhortation to the graduates:

"This Confederate Memorial half dollar is the most distinctive coin ever minted by the United States government. The figures on its face of George Washington, Lee and General Stonewall Jackson mounted on their horses make it not only the one coin in existence bearing an equestrian design, but the only United States coin bearing the likeness of a soldier."

"The inscription on the reverse—'Memorial to the Valor of the Soldier of the South'—gives it a spiritual significance as the only coin ever minted by our government, and perhaps of any government, as a memorial solely to the qualities of character."

"This coin is presented to you in reverent memory of the soldier of the south and in grateful acknowledgment of the highest honor the United States government could have conferred upon the south by legal enactment."

"May you, like they, in the words of Lee 'oppose constancy to adversity, fortitude to suffering, and courage to danger.'"

The tribute is signed by "Dorothy Colquitt Arkwright."

VOYAGE OF ADVENTURE IS BEGUN BY AUTHOR

Toronto, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—In search of adventure and treasure, the 26-foot yacht Stingaree left Toronto island today bound for the Spanish main, with Coscas island as its more or less immediate objective. The crew comprised William John Beach, his wife and 5-year-old son.

The trip is the fulfillment of Mr. Beach's long ambition to cruise the seas where pirates once roamed. He is going primarily for the adventure, but expects also to gather material for a novel. The boat is radio equipped.

from the post gates across the street car tracks when Stapp, observing him, also crossed the tracks and approached him. It was testified that Stapp, without the least provocation, swung a punch to Herndon's head. The latter merely boarded a street car and went into Atlanta.

Private Marshall Sowers told the court he had been appealed to by Herndon on the afternoon of the day on which Stapp was killed.

"Herndon asked me what he should do," Sowers testified. "He said he had heard that Stapp intended to kill him. He even contemplated absenting himself from his duties as a member of the guard squad. But I told him he should not do that."

Sowers said he twice saw Herndon run from Company I barracks on May 20 to avoid conflict with Stapp, and here was a nice point of army law, which does not recognize justifiable homicide if the slayer has not taken advantage of all methods of exit in order to save himself from an attack.

Military Law Tangle.
The army method of prosecuting a prisoner is to bring out all the direct evidence available so that at the end of the prosecution's case the defense also had been presented quite ably. The defense counsel, therefore, petitioned the court to dismiss the case in its entirety as to the charge and specifications.

The court was closed as the horde of officers comprising the general court discussed the case. Afterward Colonel Melville S. Jarvis, presiding, said court members were not discussing the probability of the prisoner's guilt. They merely discussed the matter of whether complete opportunity had been given the prosecution to present its case and whether the proceedings were completely fair to Herndon. After that a vote showed that the court believed Herndon had been driven to a desperate deed because of intense persecution—and he was acquitted.

ITALY INDORSES SECURITY TREATY

peace of all Europe, insofar as it can be regulated by the covenant of the league and the expected arbitration treaties, the general situation is distinctly brighter.

NATURE OF BRITISH PACT REVEALED IN STATEMENT.

London, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Official papers explaining the Anglo-French accord in reply to Germany's overtures for a pact guaranteeing Germany's western frontiers will not be presented to parliament, Mr. Baldwin, the prime minister, explained in the house of commons today, until the British foreign secretary, Austen Chamberlain returns to London about the end of next week.

An authoritative statement given out tonight, however, indicates fully the nature of the proposed pact, which, should Germany accept—as deemed likely by the British government—will constitute an entirely new factor in European relationships.

First, Great Britain will abandon her policy of isolation and become virtually a member of a four power alliance—for it is assumed that Italy will join—to preserve the peace of Europe and guarantee the frontiers of France, Belgium, and Germany as established under the Versailles treaty against violation from any side, and will employ the whole of her defensive forces for this purpose.

Pact Is Bi-lateral.
The pact will be bi-lateral, Great Britain undertaking to guarantee the frontiers against unprovoked attack by either France or Germany. But the whole pact will be under the aegis of the league of nations, which Germany must join, and any action taken will be under the league covenant.

Apparently both Great Britain and France had to make concessions. France wanted the right to send troops across the Rhineland to help Poland in the event of war. Great Britain objected to this, and seemingly a compromise has been found, under which the whole of the eastern frontier of the league.

The pact which Mr. Chamberlain negotiated will be certain to meet strong criticism in the house of commons, because many will contend that it involves Great Britain too deeply in possible European embroilments.

GERMANY ASSUMES WAITING ATTITUDE.
Berlin, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The German foreign office has assumed a waiting attitude with respect to the negotiations for the proposed security pact.

"Most of the so-called semi-inspired comments emanating from Geneva these days on the Briand-Chamberlain negotiations is utter nonsense and merely makes the complicated situation more confused," was the observation today of a German foreign office official.

"The German government, therefore, does not intend to make any comment at this stage."

"Germany," said this official, "has insisted from the beginning on two points, first that the whole complex problem, including a security pact, evacuation of the Cologne zone and the Ruhr, disarmament, and Germany's entry into the league of nations, constitutes one entity and cannot be settled except conjointly, and second, that the only method of disposing of the matter satisfactorily is through a new international conference where responsible statesmen can meet face to face."

As to Germany's joining the league he said:

"Germany's position is that she can only join the league if on an equal footing with the other members, so long as sanctions are still effective against us, so long as our territory is occupied and so long as the charge of non-fulfillment of our disarmament obligations is upon us, we cannot see that our entry would be on a basis of equality. We, therefore, wanted these other questions cleared up, and then to crown this whole settlement work of the European situation by entering the league."

Surprise was expressed that France and Great Britain had come to an agreement without Italy, and it was remarked that "Germany's offer of a security pact was never intended to be other than one in which Italy would also share."

NATURE OF BRITISH PACT REVEALED IN STATEMENT.

London, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Official papers explaining the Anglo-French accord in reply to Germany's overtures for a pact guaranteeing Germany's western frontiers will not be presented to parliament, Mr. Baldwin, the prime minister, explained in the house of commons today, until the British foreign secretary, Austen Chamberlain returns to London about the end of next week.

An authoritative statement given out tonight, however, indicates fully the nature of the proposed pact, which, should Germany accept—as deemed likely by the British government—will constitute an entirely new factor in European relationships.

ERRORS READY IN SHEPHERD CASE

Chicago, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Hopes were high when court convened today that the jury would be convinced by the testimony of William Darling Shepherd, the alleged murderer of the millionaire forger, William Nelson McJannet, whom he is accused of having fed typhoid germs, but the attorneys encountered unexpected difficulties in obtaining the last two jurors.

Court adjourned nearly an hour early because the sixth special venire of 100 names had been exhausted in the three weeks and two days search for jurors. Eight names, two men passed tentatively by both sides, and two whose qualifications had not been completed occupied the jury box.

The prosecution then telegraphed requests to three witnesses and instructed them to come to Chicago immediately, indicating belief that completion of the jury was near.

Arson Is Costing U.S. Annual Loss Of $160,000,000

Washington, June 9.—Arson rings, headed by "unscrupulous politicians and business men," are operating in practically every city in the country and are causing an indirect loss to business generally of $160,000,000 T. Alfred Fleming, supervisor of conservation of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, asserted in an address before the convention of the National Association of Credit Men.

Deaths resulting from incendiary fires in the United States average 15,000 a year, Mr. Fleming said. In the end, he added, the consumer has to pay the loss from such fires because business firms naturally add to their prices the resulting premium rates for insurance.

Declaring the insurance companies are "continuously confronted with the dire results of misdirected sympathy on the part of both judges and juries," Mr. Fleming said the only remedy was a model arson statute to correct the weakness of existing state laws.

Numerous group meetings to particular lines of trade occupied delegates to the convention today, after a general session which was addressed by Secretary Hoover, Vice Governor Platt of the federal reserve board, and Senator Fess, of Ohio.

Mr. Hoover stressed the necessity of maintaining credit in business, "based on character," and scored the credit criminal as a cause of tremendous economic waste.

OTTO KAHN DENIES CRITICIZING FRENCH ATTITUDE OF DEBT

New York, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Otto Kahn, prominent New York banker, returning on the Majestic today after five months tour of the continent, issued a statement denying alleged interviews which had quoted him as criticizing the attitude of the United States efforts to collect the French debt.

"I have been scrupulously careful not to say one word in public during my stay in Europe on the question of the foreign debts to America, except in one speech before an American club in Paris," Mr. Kahn said.

"On that occasion I said it would be unbecoming to speak on the question of the French debt, a question which I hoped would be settled before long in a manner satisfactory and honorable to both nations.

"At a private dinner, later, at which no reporters were present, I cautioned the gathering against playing too much dependability on words from America that would sound suspicious, declaring even journalists and politicians were not cloaked in infallibility."

When he learned the garbled reports of both speeches had been cabled to London and America, Mr. Kahn said he immediately cabled a correction.

Earth Found Losing Second Per Century A Bit of Its Time

Washington, June 9.—The old earth is slowing down, unable to keep up the terrific pace which it set in its youth some ago. It is slowing down one-thousandth of a second per century, according to Prof. A. S. Edington, of Cambridge university, in a report published by the Smithsonian institution here. This means a pace that loses one minute each six million years. Once the earth's day was three or four hours. It was during that period that the moon probably was thrown off, says Prof. Edington. It may have come out of the Pacific ocean.

"The view that the Pacific ocean is the hollow left at the place where the moon broke off seems tenable," he says. "In that case we may consider that the water now contained in that hollow formerly covered the earth, or most of it."

U. S. SUPREME COURT HAS CROWDED DOCKET

Washington, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The supreme court failed to reduce the length of its docket during the term which ended yesterday, although it came within three cases of equalling its best previous record for volume of business handled. Instead of a reduction, 75 more cases were on the docket at the end of the term than at the beginning.

The number of cases on the appellate docket during the term was 1,291, of which 438 were brought over from the previous term.

The court disposed of 708 of these cases, 533 being carried over to the next term. In addition, the court had before it during the term 25 original cases, of which it fully disposed of three and substantially of two others involving boundary disputes between states, in which some details remain to be worked out.

Policeman's Authority Test Case Enlivened by Clash

The right of a policeman to order spectators from Atlanta pool rooms will be checked out Thursday afternoon in police court before Murphy M. Holloway, record pro tem, when a decision is expected in the case of George B. Hill, 44-year-old pool proprietor, whose trial began Monday. The case was checked over Tuesday and Wednesday.

Hill, who is at liberty under $500 bond, will be arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct and interfering with an officer growing out of his arrest recently by Patrolman J. M. Tuggle, after he had questioned the officer's authority to order every one from his pool room who was not actually playing pool. Tuggle stated he was acting under orders from Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jett.

Paul Painleve Trailed by Air To War Scene

Paris, June 9.—For the first time in history, Wednesday a chief of government, accompanied by a retinue of aides, will fly to a war zone, trailed through the air by a corps of international newspaper correspondents.

Premier Paul Painleve's flying journey from France to the battle area in northern Africa, where French soldiers are fighting the Riffian tribesmen, has important political significance, but it also has a strong element of modern romance. The various aspects of the Riffian situation, which still remains difficult, are being followed by the press and public. Interest in the flight is intense. The spectacle of a premier, darting through the air from one continent to another, his destination a tribal war zone, has caught the French imagination.

Final preparations were expedited with a speed that suggested a crisis. The usual accessories of comfort and elegance that attend the journey of a European governor general had no place in this expedition.

The ubiquitous newspaper correspondent made ready at a moment's notice. A small, sleek, modern airplane, a biplane, was chosen for the journey. It is asked, what does it mean? Is Painleve to reveal a spectacular coup, or is he merely seeking information which will enable him to mould a new policy?

The premier may confer with Primo Rivera, the Spanish dictator who also is in Morocco, and there might ensue a smashing offensive. In such a case, the French would combine their forces. Suggestions of a summer truce come from the fact that the French troops are suffering from the intense African heat, which does not affect the Riffians.

Whatever his purpose, Painleve expects quick developments, for he intends to be back in Paris in time to attend next Tuesday's cabinet meeting. The result of his investigation may be known at that time.

Meanwhile, official reports from Rabat indicate that the situation is still serious. Riffian attacks continue and new skirmishes with the French are reported.

Wellesley Farms, Mass., June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Priscilla Amidon, 16, a student in the Wellesley Junior high school, died in the Newton hospital tonight from revolver wounds received in what the police believed might be a suicide pact. Sterling Mills, a student in the senior high school, was in the same hospital in a serious condition with a bullet wound in the head.

The boy, 18 years old, was found lying wounded by the side of a road near here late today. He told the policeman who discovered him that the girl was dying in the nearby woods from whom he had apparently dragged himself. The police said he later admitted shooting the girl, "because I had to."

Miss Amidon, known to her friends as "Pussy," was found with two or more wounds in the head 100 yards from the roadside with a revolver by her side. Its ownership early tonight had not been established.

According to a school mate, "Pussy" told her this morning in the school assembly hall that "this is the last day I shall be in this hall."

The Mills boy did not attend school today but was seen by classmates walking toward the Junior high school, a mile from the Senior school, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He is said to have told the friends who greeted him that he had a "date" with Pussy.

It was reported that the boy and girl had left notes telling of a suicide pact.

higher court, at is considered likely. Former Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes may be drawn into the defense to argue before the higher tribunals the constitutional merits of the law.

Darrow, it is assured now, will conduct most of the cross-examination of witnesses.

After a conference Tuesday, he expressed some of his views on evolution and the freedom of learning.

"I've read Darwin, and I've read the Bible," the famous trial lawyer said. "I don't find them inconsistent."

"It is not the truth of evolution that is involved," Darrow said, "so much as liberty of education."

"I find in the Bible no mention of the process of creation," Darrow said, returning to the subject of evolution. "For that reason I don't see why evolution is not the best explanation."

Asked if there would be any snafus down in Dayton as exhibits, Darrow replied:

"No, but there will be a lot of lawyers."

was to have been worked from the outside through agents, and the gang was to have been split among several alleged parties to the transaction. He named Roy Hunsberger, a runner in the office of Deputy Warden Julian A. Schoen, as a party to the plot. It is Mr. Schoen's duty to assign all prisoners to their respective duties and Hunsberger was supposed to be agreed to use his influence in getting Montgomery a "good" job. Hunsberger denied the charges and later was exonerated by Hoffritz.

Hoffritz lost his position as runner and was transferred to the tailor shop. His former job was considered one of the best in the prison, and he claimed to have paid $500 for it.

When Montgomery protested that Hoffritz was holding him up for a ten to one proposition, Hoffritz stated, the money now has to be split between a number of persons.

Warden Snook stated that he has used every means at his disposal to quell efforts on the part of prisoners to sell position to others. He declared he believes the dispatch and quickness with which the present case was handled will do much to discourage other efforts to sell "jobs."

Hoffritz was succeeded in his old position as runner by Richard Bailey, a member of the famous "Kavanaugh bootleg gang," which figured prominently in the trials of former Warden Albert E. Sartain and former Deputy Warden Looney J. Fletcher.

Attorneys in the recent trial of Sartain and Fletcher claimed that if any money was passed in the prison for "soft jobs," prisoners paid other prisoners and that the officials had nothing to do with the alleged schemes. They claimed the defendants knew nothing of the transactions, and open charges of a great "shake-down" scheme were made in court.

Montgomery is assisting former Governor Warren D. McCay, of Indiana, who is serving a 10-year term for using the mails to defraud, in editing "Good Words," monthly publication of the prison.

In the event the money had been passed, even though it went no higher than Hoffritz himself, there would always have been a doubt in Montgomery's mind as to how the business would be handled and he would have held officials of the prison under a cloud of suspicion, Warden Snook explained.

Attempts to capture Canton are repulsed.

Canton, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Fighting between Yunnanese and Cantonese troops, which has lasted almost without a break for 60 hours, has caused very little damage because of the barricaded positions of the opposing forces. The fighting began at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

It is believed the contest will be protracted, with small chance of a decision until the armies meet in the east and west river districts.

Cantonese troops tonight were closing in on the city of Canton, but all attempts to capture the city from the Yunnanese troops holding it, failed. Heavy firing continued throughout the night.

Cantonese Advancing.

General Hsu Ch'ung-chi and his Cantonese troops are reported advancing on the city from the east, and General Chu Pei-tak, with further reinforcements, is reported on his way down the north river.

Earlier reports that Commander Wing Fu, of the gunboat Popik, had taken a bribe from the Yunnanese and was tonight proved incorrect. Wing, it since is reported, collected $100,000 from the Yunnanese, but handed it over to the Kwangtung forces. The Popik, apparently according to the Yunnanese demands, conveyed a number of soldiers across the river, where they promptly were captured by their Cantonese enemies, together with a large quantity of opium and counterfeit coins.

The situation among the foreigners here continued extremely tense today. The fighting has been going on continuously since Saturday. The foreign settlement (Shamenee) is not in line of fire, but is not far removed from the battle.

Move Fighting Base.

Representatives of the Chinese chamber of commerce, accompanied by the Associated Press correspondents, and several other foreigners, proceeded to the Kwangtung headquarters on the Island of Honan and requested the Cantonese commander, General Li Fook-Lum, to move the fighting base to some point outside the city, where less material damage would be done by the warfare.

General Li told the delegation that he was perfectly willing to agree, provided only that no soldiers on either side were permitted to enter the city during the hostilities.

ANTI-FOREIGN AGITATION IS SPREADING IN CHINA

Shanghai, June 9.—In addition to the factional warfare which is harassing Canton and endangering foreign lives, dispatches received here Tuesday night report that anti-foreign agitation is spreading in other parts of China.

Students at Taiyuan-Fu have declared a strike, the wilder elements among them urging the destruction of foreign property. A procession of students hurled bricks through the windows of two large shops dealing in foreign goods, attacked a hotel entering to foreigners and a Baptist mission.

Students in Peking are urging the formation of a volunteer corps to boycott British and Japanese goods and to celebrate May 30, the day the riots began in Shanghai, as a national "humiliation day."

The situation here is quietest. In Tientsin there is an absence of disorder, but the native banks are refusing to accept foreign bank notes.

YUNNANESE TROOPS CROSS RIVER AT CANTON

San Francisco, June 9.—Yunnanese troops have been successful in crossing the river at Canton and have effected a landing on Honan island, defended by the Cantonese troops, the Chinese newspaper Chung Sai Yat Po said it had been advised by cable Tuesday afternoon.

Hot fighting is now going on between the opposing armies, said the cable.

Another cable, received by the paper from Hong Kong, said runners arrived there from Canton bringing word that a large number of soldiers have been wounded on both sides in the Canton struggle.

BOLSHEVIST ACTIVITIES BLAMED FOR OUTBREAK

Shanghai, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Outbreaks of Chinese students here were the result of bolshevist activities—school boys made the ignorant tools of bolshevist plotters—the police prosecutor in the mixed court said today in outlining charges against defendants arrested as the result of disturbances.

H. C. Che, a Chinese surgeon at the police hospital, testified that riot victims received wounds while facing guns, as all wounds were on front portions of the bodies. This testimony contradicted statements issued by the students Saturday saying the victims of the Lousa police station riot, the scene of the first outbreak, were shot in the back.

Harry Westridge, for 15 years a missionary and a member of the staff of the China inland mission, was on a tram car which was stalled in front of the police station when the riot started, he testified.

Had the police hesitated an instant longer before firing into the crowd of enraged students, they would have been trampled upon and the mob would have seized the police station, he testified.

CLAIM STUDENTS SHOT IN BACK

London, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Foreign police in Shanghai fired into crowds of students during the first outbreak of the present disturbances at a moment when the mob was forcing entrance into the police station and shouting "kill the foreigners." Ronald McNeill, under-secretary for foreign affairs, informed the house of commons today. His statement was made in reply to a question by F. W. Petlick-Lawrence, labor member for Leicester. McNeill added he deeply regretted that "this attack by the forces of disorder" should have been conducted tonight from the West Kentucky Coal company's mine No. 9, where 17 perished in a gas explosion yesterday.

Four other victims, two white men and two negroes, had not been found by searching crews tonight.

Bringing the bodies to the surface from the 400-foot level where the explosion occurred, kept the crews busy nearly all day today. The first one recovered was that of Lister Merritt, 18, Sturgis High school football captain and junior class president.

As the bodies were recovered and wrapped in canvas, they were placed in the miners' bath house, which was converted into a morgue. Company officials had prevailed upon relatives of the victims to remain in their homes and scenes of despair and grief, usually a saddening scene at the mouths of mines where accidents occur, were missing.

AMUNDSEN HUNT STILL IN DOUBT

Philadelphia, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Members of the naval personnel in charge of the amphibian airplanes to be used on the MacMillan arctic expedition said today they had no direct information from Donald B. MacMillan that he may change his advanced food and fuel base from Cape Thomas Hubbard to Cape Columbia in case a search for Amundsen is necessary.

There is little doubt Donald Amundsen and his party of fliers are safe and will be found. Flight Commander Lieutenant Byrd asserted today, a had landing that so damaged the Amundsen-Edsworth planes they were unable to rise, he said, has in all probability sent them drifting back to civilization. If they are not heard of before the MacMillan amphibians take off from their base on the polar sea about August 1, he thinks they will be sighted by the Americans soon afterward.

The purpose of the American expedition will be discovery and exploration of new lands. In the course of flying, it is possible the Americans will pass over the north pole, the flight commander said, although, as he added, there is no excitement in finding a spot that has already been discovered.

Today there was every prospect that the three planes, NA-1, NA-2 and NA-3, would get away from the navy yard tomorrow on the 31-2 hours' flight to Boston. The NA-3 today was sent up for a final full-load test. NA-1 and NA-2 had reserve fuel tanks installed.

4 out of 5 are marked

There's no way to get around it. Dental statistics show that four out of every five younger, too—are victims of Pyorrhea. Do you want to avoid this dread disease?

Just as the stability of a lighthouse depends upon a firm foundation, so are healthy teeth dependent upon healthy gums.

Prevent tooth decay below the gum-line

As the soil nourishes the tree roots, the gums nourish the teeth. And as the tree decays if you bare the roots, so do the teeth decay when gum shrinkage starts in.

This condition—one of the first stages of Pyorrhea—is very common and something that ordinary tooth pastes are powerless to prevent. If not checked promptly it will lead to loss of teeth and serious organic diseases.

If used in time and used consistently twice daily, Forhan's will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress. It will preserve the gums in their pink, normal, healthy condition, safeguard your health and keep your mouth clean, fresh and wholesome.

Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

'New Freedom' of Flappers Characterized As Curse To Modern Girl By Judge

Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley Alternately Criticizes and Praises Young Women of Today.

Pointing out dangers ahead of woman in the enjoyment of her "new-found social freedom" and warning woman of the impending development of cynicism in place of romance, faith and worshipful admiration, Judge Samuel H. Sibley, United States district judge, delivered the principal address at the commencement exercises of Emory university Tuesday.

Judge Sibley sharply condemned some features of the "new freedom" for women but also paid tribute to other traits developed by modern girls.

"Romance, faith and worshipful admiration are giving place to cynicism," Judge Sibley declared. "A girl, it is said, is no longer to be protected; she knows as much and is as well able to take care of herself as anybody. She is not treated with real courtesy and respect. The hat, when raised to her, is mockery—she is as bad as he who wears it."

Short skirts, nude knees and rolled stockings, bobbed hair, petting parties, risqué jests, indecent dancing came in for sharp disapproval by the speaker. Judge Sibley said the remedy for these conditions is simple.

"Truth is the remedy," he declared. "Truth to see where we are, where we are going, what the consequences are to be and what the remedy is."

Judge Sibley was the principal speaker at the exercises held at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning when 180 members of the senior class were graduated. One of the features of the day was the presentation of certificates to graduate nurses of Western Memorial hospital, with the members of the senior class, this being the first time these certificates have been presented to the nurses in the history of the institution.

Diplomas were awarded the members of the graduating class by Dr. H. W. Cox, president of Emory university. Degrees in nine courses were conferred as follows: Bachelor of arts, bachelor of philosophy, bachelor of science, bachelor of business administration, bachelor of divinity, bachelor of law and doctor of medicine.

Honor graduates who received their degrees Tuesday were the following: Robert B. Pollard, Jr., Ernest Hartsock, Albert S. Hatcher, bachelors of arts; George A. Morgan, Jr., Paul M. Spurlin and Charles D. Hunt, Jr., bachelors of philosophy; Charles E. Hall, Jr. and Sam Proger, bachelors of science; Frank A. Lott, bachelor of business administration; and L. Cawthon received the Palmer medal in mathematics. Milam Reeves was awarded the Reppart medal in Greek and A. J. Lovelace was awarded the military medal, the awards being made by Dr. Cox.

In conclusion of his speech Judge Sibley said:

"Social freedom, centering about the new-found freedom of woman. This is by far the most startling and portentous development of freedom since the middle ages. I view this thing, of course, from a man's standpoint, but am trying to see what is for woman's good. She has hitherto been treated as a creature. I view man has taken advantage of her by physical superiority, has kept his advantage by political and educational means, and has made her a creature. She has bound herself by a network of social conventions and restraints, by a code of fashion in dress, that has kept her from being a free woman, and of properties in conduct that have made her well nigh helpless and miserable.

"Marriage was one institution that was in her favor, with its permanency, its wife rights over the husband's, and its one-sided alimony which prematurely ended. All these things have been scrapped, or greatly mutilated.

"Politically free, economically free, cynically free, free in dress and social conventions, our girls are indeed free in the generalization, because the line between youth and maturity is one of the things that has been abolished.

"I have always loved the American girl, capable, free in thought and motion, trusted, and therefore good, modest without prudishness, virtuous by preference, protected because innocent and pure in heart. God ever bless and keep her so. Is she today sacrificing herself in the new freedom? Her winds do the blowing straws disperse."

"Her short skirts have the sanction both of trimness and freedom, but nude stockings and bare knees look like plain vulgarity. Short hair saves time and annoyance, and often adds to beauty. A clownish coat of neither transparent waist and one-cupping skirts may be cool; they do not advance the cause of modesty, which is believed to be not yet wholly lost in the world. Feminine pajamas may have their place, but it is not in the bathroom or on the beach or the pages of the newspaper.

"Though a churchman, I always have defended decent dancing. I cannot defend the so-called that is pulled off now. The 'petting,' risqué jokes and indecent behavior are familiar now may be frank, but are no wholesome.

"Every one of the things I have instanced are associations with which they were not consciously swept from a class of society with which no lady would wish to be ranked. The character of moving pictures and magazines is a morbid, excited attitude of mind that bodes no good for society. Scandals of the most amazing kind, touching school girls and persons in decent society are daily heard.

"The grand jury of Fulton county declares that there should be a single standard of morality for males and females. Daring girls reply: There is: we adopt that of the boys; what they do we will do. We have the Forty acres of business property in Sarasota, Fla., on which are to be erected two hotels, office buildings and 50 or 60 stores, have been purchased by the Wynne-Claughton company, of Atlanta, associated with E. The building program calls for an expenditure of between two and three million dollars, it is said. The property was recently purchased by the Wynne-Claughton company from private owners who had planned a 200-room tourist hotel, it was said.

SAVANNAH MEET
Savannah, Ga., June 9.—A statewide all-Georgia development meeting will be held in Savannah some time next month, as a result of the conference last week between Atlanta and Savannah officials.

Mayor Hull, of Savannah, will call the meeting jointly with Mayor Sims, of Atlanta, and personal invitations for the conference are to be extended to every mayor in Georgia.

Organization of a state development and publicity association is the prime interest of this meeting and it is expected that an advertising program of first magnitude will be adopted.

Last week in Macon and Atlanta a committee of the Savannah board of trade met with a committee of Atlanta men, including Mayor Sims and Mayor Hull to discuss the advisability of launching a great Georgia development program.

It was tentatively decided that this statewide conference should be held in July by the two mayors and public officials, industrial leaders, bankers and merchants all over the state would be invited to take part in this conference.

The Atlanta and Macon conference of last week grew out of a meeting in Savannah on May 6 among leaders of Atlanta, Savannah and other Georgia municipalities when it was decided to organize the man-power of the state for industrial, commercial and agricultural development.

At that conference a comprehensive resolution was adopted and a committee of seven was appointed to draft a tentative program for organization and procedure.

The meeting in Savannah next month, if the present plans agreed upon in Atlanta are carried out, will know as the largest and most important ever held in the state. Atlanta leaders declare that no less than 5,000 Georgians will be on hand for the Savannah conference and that every mayor and public official in the state may be looked for. It is thought possible that the Savannah conference will also see a strong organization begun of mayors of Georgia municipalities and towns as well as the launching of the development and publicity association.

The prime purpose of the new organization will be to advertise to the world the agricultural, mineral, transportation, man-power and shipping resources of Georgia, coincident with the actual development of these resources. It is considered likely that a five or ten-year development program will be adopted.

AGED WOMAN DIES
Beneath Engine
Mrs. Jennie Clifford, 72, of 73 North Howard street, Kirkwood, was struck and instantly killed at noon Tuesday by fast Georgia railway train No. 1 at the Kirkwood crossing. The body was dragged nearly 100 feet up the tracks before the train was brought to a standstill, it was said.

Lee C. Clifford, watchman at the crossing, narrowly escaped death in a futile effort to save Mrs. Clifford. He was struck by the engine and thrown several feet away. His injuries were not serious, however, and he was removed to his home, 1440 DeKalb avenue, and placed in care of doctors.

Mrs. Clifford was returning to her home with numerous purchases she had made in Kirkwood and was crossing the tracks slowly as the train approached. She was prevented from hearing the warning scream of the locomotive whistle or the horrified shouts of onlookers. Then followed the crash of the engine as it struck the body of the old woman.

The train was in charge of Engineer C. L. McLaughlin and Conductor J. O. Evans. Police stated, however, that the accident was unavoidable.

The aged watchman was in the act of reaching for her arm just as the train struck them, and for a time it seemed as though he would be dragged under the wheels by the suction of the moving train, witnesses stated.

Mrs. Clifford came to Atlanta four years ago from Findlay, Ohio. She was a native of Norwalk, Ohio, where she was born and raised. She has been making her home with her son, Frank Clifford, who is employed as a cabinet maker by Floyd Brothers on Flat Shoals avenue, for the past four years.

She was a member of the Todd Bible class at the North Avenue Presbyterian church and had missed but one Sunday in attendance since making her residence here, it was stated. She was well known for her church activities in Findlay, where she was a member of the First Methodist church.

In addition to her son, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Frank Schlager, of Norwalk, Ohio, and a niece, Mrs. W. E. Ulrich, of Columbus avenue, Atlanta. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by the H. M. Patterson & Son.

GIRL SLAYER CARRIED
GUN, COURT IS TOLD
New York, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Destiny declared by the prosecution to show Dorothy Perkins, 17, had coldly premeditated the shooting of her suitor, Thomas A. Templeton, a lawyer, was presented today during the trial of the girl. Witnesses asserted Dorothy had carried a revolver for some time prior to the St. Valentine's party at which the shooting occurred.

The prosecution plans another attack tomorrow on the girl's claim of "accident" through the testimony of Mickey Connors, also a suitor of Dorothy's. What her relations were with Connors and what led to her exclamation, "I'll show you whether I'm a yellow," which the prosecution claims preceded the fatal shooting, will be developed during the cross-examination, according to District Attorney MacDonnell.

Joseph Harrell, a buddy of Templeton, was the prosecution's chief witness today. He testified of his knowledge of Dorothy's "kiss" and of her exclamation that she was a "blonde-haired bandit," when criticized by Templeton. Harrell testified that Dorothy said she was carrying the weapon because she was afraid of Mrs. Connors, who she alleged had threatened her.

U. S. ARMY OFFICER
KILLED IN PARIS
Paris, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Brigadier General William Chamberlain, U. S. A., former member of the general staff and with service in the Philippines and France to his credit, was shot here last night when a taxicab in which he was riding collided with a street car.

He had left his wife at her hotel and some hours elapsed before his identity was definitely established. Mrs. Chamberlain is sailing for the United States with the body tomorrow. The Chamberlain family had been here 10 days visiting.

In France he was chief of artillery for the second division and helped capture Belleau Wood.

JAZZ IS LIKENED
TO ANIMAL HOWLS
AT MUSIC MEETING
Chicago, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Animal howls are not music even though harnessed to the rhythm of jazz, so declared John G. Gulbrausen, Chicago maker of pianos, in a denunciation of current dance tunes, delivered at the National Music Trades convention here today.

"Jazz is not American," Mr. Gulbrausen asserted. "As representing the music industry of America we should denounce it and do everything possible to exterminate its violence. It is not music. It is animal howls with an undercurrent of tom-tom beats so that it may be danced to."

"If every home in America had a musical instrument in it," said W. W. Smith, president of the National Association of Music Merchants, "the divorce rate would take a sudden and astonishing slump. There should be some instrument in every home. Besides keeping people at home evenings, where they belong, music has a wonderful effect on the morals."

NUMBING SYSTEM
WORK TO BE RUSHED
Instead of spreading assignment of new house numbers in Atlanta over a long period of months, it is probable that all of the work will be done during a 30-day period early next year, according to a decision reached at a meeting held Tuesday in the office of Postmaster E. K. Large.

Work of renumbering houses, under the system recently voted by city council, will be carried out continuously by R. W. Torras, engineer and secretary of the planning commission, but the new system will not be effective until the period designated next year.

Such an arrangement will save big local business interests thousands of dollars as much of the confusion of installing a new numbering system will be eliminated, it is pointed out. All details will have been worked out before that time and it is thought that all numbers can be distributed within 30 days.

In addition to Mr. Large and Mr. Torras, those attending the meeting were R. K. Smith, of the American Railway Express company; J. C. Burroughs, of the Southern Bell; C. C. Kelley, representing the insurance underwriters; Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, of the Woman's club; R. H. Vogel, of the Southern Express company; and C. V. Hohenstein, of the Retail Merchants' association.

After each had explained how his company would be affected, it was voted unanimously to wait until everything is in readiness and install all numbers within a short period. All expressed gratification over council's action in adopting the new numbering plan.

$11.38 Per Capita Spent by States During Year 1923

Washington, June 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The 48 states of the union paid out $1,310,352,783 for general operating expenses in 1923, a per capita expenditure of $11.38, or $1,247,304,821, or $11.38 per capita.

The figures made public tonight by the department of commerce on the basis of census bureau surveys of the individual states disclose that of the total expenditures $805,063,782 was for operating expenses in 1923, a per capita expenditure of $7.54, or $754,063,782, or $7.54 per capita.

The step also has been recommended by the teachers' committee on modern languages of which Miss Matie Slaton is chairman.

Teaching of German in public schools here was outlawed soon after the outbreak of the world war, and even before the United States entered the war. It has not been taught here since.

CONTINUED RAINS
BOON TO FARMERS
That old saying, "It never rains but it pours," is being realized here as the rain in Atlanta and the heavens are still holding an abundant reserve of storm clouds for today and Thursday, according to A. H. Scott, acting foreman of the local United States weather bureau in the absence of C. F. von Herrmann.

More thunder showers are predicted for today and Thursday but the extent of their severity could not be foretold, Mr. Scott stated.

"The fury of an electrical storm is often contained until several minutes before it breaks," Mr. Scott explained. "There will be rain. That much is certain. But there is nothing by which we can estimate its severity. There may be another storm as damaging as that of Monday night, and then, there may not," he said.

Crops in this section have benefited materially by the quantity of rain it was reported, and the damage done by the 43-mile gale of Monday night is being repaired rapidly. The heavy losses from the storm were reported from line and plants of the Georgia Railway and Power company and the total estimated damage is placed between $500,000 and $800,000.

A few sections of Georgia have missed the full benefit from rains of the past several days—principally in the northern section of the state—according to Mr. Scott, but stated that the entire state should record rainfall within the next day or two. Little precipitation has been reported since Tuesday from Rome and Gainesville, although rain is predicted by the weather man.

Mercury has registered a slight drop during the past days but, because of the saturated condition of the air, Atlantians have continued to suffer from the heat. The low point of the past several days was recorded Monday night, just at the break of the storm, when mercury dropped to 66 degrees. The thermometer stood at 69 degrees at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, mounting to a high point of 86 degrees during the afternoon, the report stated.

Mr. Scott asserted that there would be little change in temperature today or Thursday but that there was a probability of cooler weather for Friday and Saturday.

Reports from over the state show the continuance of warm water over the cotton belt and in the southern region of the Ohio valley and the middle Atlantic states. It was cooler Tuesday in North Dakota and Minnesota, and cool weather continued in the northwest. Showers have occurred in the eastern lake region, the Ohio valley and locally in Georgia and the cotton belt.

Atlanta's precipitation, recorded at 1.22 inches, was the greatest recorded Monday in cities over the United States. The highest temperature was reported from Phoenix, Ariz., where mercury stood at 102 degrees. Several cities reported low temperatures of 48 degrees, including Helena, Mont.; North Platte, Wyo., and Huron, S. D.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AGAIN IN SCHOOLS

Teaching of the German language in Atlanta public schools, which was discontinued early in the world war, was restored Tuesday by the board of education and will go into effect next year.

Courses in German are elective and will not be made compulsory, according to present plans. Restoration of teaching of German was voted on recommendation of H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent of schools.

The step also has been recommended by the teachers' committee on modern languages of which Miss Matie Slaton is chairman.

Teaching of German in public schools here was outlawed soon after the outbreak of the world war, and even before the United States entered the war. It has not been taught here since.

IN AUTO ACCIDENT
Two men living their names as William Hembree, 23, of 900 Hollenness street, and Coleman W. Haynes, 26, soldier at Fort McPherson, were jailed Tuesday night following a collision between an automobile and a street car at Whitehall street and Stewart avenue.

Hembree is charged with being drunk and driving recklessly, while Haynes is charged with drunkenness. Haynes said he was a soldier but was in civilian clothes when arrested, officers stated. Both of the men were shaken up and bruised and Hembree received several slight cuts.

The accident is said to have happened when the automobile was going south on Whitehall street and collided with the street car as it made the turn from Stewart avenue into Whitehall. Patrolmen Gaisbert and Leathers handled the case.

Minerals are the basis of practically every manufactured article—raw materials dug from the earth make possible nearly every article in general use in industry and in the home.

The L. & N.-served South is particularly rich in mineral deposits and particularly well served in transportation facilities for taking them from where they are mined to where they are converted into finished products.

Geological Survey figures show that 25 of the principal minerals—from Aluminum to Zinc, from Iron to Sulphur, from Graphite to Fuller's Earth—are mined in the territory served by this railroad.

These facts furnish further evidence that the health, wealth and happiness of the community and of the nation are directly dependent on the transportation systems.

Entry Fees Are Received

Mr. McElwain, heralded as the equal of Peter Manning, famous trotter that was developed by the late Pop Geers, will race at Lakewood in October during the Grand Circuit races. Mr. McElwain, now a four-year-old trotter, has been entered by Ben White, noted Lexington trainer, in the free-for-all trot.

The entry of this brilliant trotter was received yesterday by Walter A. Lander, chairman of the Southeastern Fair grand circuit racing program. With the entry of Mr. McElwain were papers and the fees on nearly a dozen other horses, all young ones.

Four nominations were made by White for the jack pot race for the 1934 season.

Mr. McElwain, after a great season on the Grand Circuit, won his success at Lexington by trotting the mile in 1:59.34. He became by this record the greatest three-year-old trotter in history, for he was the only three-year-old trotter to go in less than two minutes.

White named Lady Oleatha, owned by a Memphis horseman, for the $3,000 2:14 trot at Lakewood this fall.

MAJOR SPORTING EVENT

The sports world in Atlanta, aside from the daily baseball game, an automobile race here and there, amateur baseball, golf for the man who plays, billiards, and other less exciting amusements, has locked the door, hung out a sign to that effect, and taken no notice of the distant sport. Apparently sports followers in this city are going to be the ones of those good old rests until Bobby Jones again goes north to next time to contest the national amateur golf championship at Lakmont, where he played his first final match and almost became a blue-tressed national champion. The only sport that will flourish will blossom in or midst in a few days, and it is a tournament not to be sneezed at. However, it will not have a Bobby Jones in its list of participants. It will be a contest between Adair, Chick Riddle, and many others.

Dempsey Chanced.
The humble writer had dinner with Dempsey in a New York restaurant last fall. He also has seen him at close range during the last few years in the ring and in the wild west. He was one of the pop-eyed witnesses to the wild scramble about the ring in Toledo when Dempsey became world's champion.

and career he has experienced. In his third head, Jones is returning to Lakmont, and who is there among amateur golfers who can say he is the greatest amateur champion in the United States? Golf such as his displayed at Lakmont is sufficient to win a national amateur, provided, of course, that he is the recognized champion from the heat or something and play for the world's most wonderful golf course. It is the record of a career, a record of many past performances.

Wenzler Pros.

Harry R. Wenzler, of the Colonial Club, Memphis, who won the championship of the southern states at Lakmont, is the recognized champion here at the starters at the Biltmore club, Asheville, in this year's golf frolic. It is the record of a career, a record of many past performances.

Wenzler eliminated Percy Adair, Lakmont, and who is there among amateur golfers who can say he is the greatest amateur champion in the United States? Golf such as his displayed at Lakmont is sufficient to win a national amateur, provided, of course, that he is the recognized champion from the heat or something and play for the world's most wonderful golf course. It is the record of a career, a record of many past performances.

Dempsey has grown fat about the shoulders and neck and across the small of his back. Fat in these places is not a good thing. He has a knife and that is not the way fighters are wont to do it. No, Dempsey is not the Dempsey of old. He has slowed greatly to begin it. Dempsey is still willing to be given Gene Tunney, the most interesting boxing match of the former champion, should a match be arranged.

Dell Is Here To Bolster Crackers' Hurling Staff

"Wheeler" Dell arrived in Atlanta yesterday to join his former Pacific coast teammates on the roster of the Crackers baseball club, coming to replace Hughie Biedert, who jumped the club recently to engage in automobile business in New York.

Dell has been idle this year but declares that he is in excellent condition and will be ready for action as soon as he rests up from a long trip and sleeping on Pullmans.

He was obtained during the past winter trading season by Dan Michaels, but, at his own request, was placed on the voluntary retired list at the beginning of this season.

When Biedert pulled his "disappearing act" Dell was communicated with and changed his mind about retiring from the national pastime. It is hoped in these parts that he will prove as effective as the other players from the coast who are on Michaels' payroll.

Last season Dell worked 183 innings, winning nine and losing 14 games. But the change of scenery may work the same change for him that it did for Jim Bagby, a Seattle cast-off who is now regarded as the "ole marster" of the Atlanta crew.

With the addition of Dell, the Cracker pitching staff is now complete with three right-handers and three southpaws, so the twirlers can now take their regular turn in the box without overworking any of them.

Boston, June 9.—A rally in the eighth, hitting two runs, beat the Red Sox today, 5 to 2, and gave Cleveland an even break in their four-game series. A single by pinch-hitter Burt, tied the sacrifice hit, Jamieson's sacrifice fly and McNulty's double gave the Indians a margin of two runs. Speaker and Boone made spectacular one-hand catches and Flanagan also played brilliantly for Boston.

PRESENT SCALE ATHLETICS RAPID

Green Castle, Ind., June 9.—Continuation of athletics on the present scale will destroy the educational ideal of the American college, L. H. Murlin, new president of De Pauw university, declared in his inaugural address today.

Admitting that athletics "is not merely a matter of recreation but is a legitimate part of our educational activity," Dr. Murlin expressed the belief that "athletics is in a bad way in American education today."

"The spectacular gladiatorial exhibitions we are having in our large universities, with millions invested in building their stadiums, filled with thousands of spectators, place the game and the players, not to say the institutions themselves, in a wrong light before the world," he said, "the whole spectacle is out of tune with the things for which the colleges and universities stand. Certain it is that the American college cannot keep up such a pace."

DIAMOND VETS HOLD SPOTLIGHT

Chicago, June 7.—The sixth of the National league's golden jubilee celebrations preceded the Chicago-New York baseball game today at Cubs' park with a squad of old-timers of the late '60s and early '70s as participants. Tom Foley, who organized the first professional team in this city, the White Stockings of 1890, had the post of honor.

For the jubilee dinner today Al Spink, the official scorer when the National league opened in Chicago in 1876, dug up the box score of the first game, played at Louisville April 25, 1876. The late A. G. Spalding shut out Louisville with seven hits, and the late "Cap" Anson played third base.

In those days, Spink said, the official scorer called the players to the plate as their turn at bat came, and the "Ross Barnes at bat, Cap Anson on deck, Cal McVey in the hole" was an official part of the game.

Once the game was delayed for a long time, Spink recalled, because he was late and he had the batting order with him.

'Dog Trouble' Blocks Bout As Mickey Walker Stalls

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
New York, June 9.—Dog trouble, the dread plague of the prizefight profession, has been distorting Mickey Walker's training camp. Consequently, his fight with Harry Greb for Greb's title of middleweight champion has been postponed, if not averted.

Dog trouble is a mysterious distemper, as strange and obscure as the deadly knuckle weakness which has been known to attack many champion fighters on the eve of battle and prevent them from keeping their dates. They are allied infirmities. Sometimes dog trouble or knuckle weakness will persist for weeks, shutting only when public interest in the match dies out. They both resemble that other infirmity of the prizefight profession known as boxoffice sickness and there have been several famous cases in which the specialists said: "The kid is suffering from dog trouble" or "the kid is suffering from knuckle weakness" when the real diagnosis should have been boxoffice sickness.

To the mind of the layman, or, say, as he is technically known to the profession, it would seem obvious that a veterinary should be called in a case of dog trouble. But that is just what you might expect from a layman, or, to use the technical term, a sap.

Off Ten Days.
The first one to be called is a good business manager. Then, if you want to go to elaborate extremes, you might call a chiropractor, too, as Mickey Walker did, when he got dog trouble Tuesday. The manager, Jack Kearns, took remedial measures at once, notifying the boxing commission that Walker would have to postpone the fight "for at least ten days." The chiropractor does something to Walker's dogs, as an added precaution.

Mr. Kearns is quite familiar with the baffling maladies, in all their perplexing phases. He is a specialist on boxoffice sickness, and this fact leads to the belief that Mickey Walker's trouble may eventually be so diagnosed.

The symptoms of boxoffice sickness are most acute in the region of the cash register. This organ, which, in good health should jangle and peel and tinkle and bubble from morning till night, becomes mute in cases of boxoffice sickness. It may be observed in passing that the cash register of the Greb-Walker fight, has evinced this very symptom of late. Its merry notes began to wane after the McGuire-Berlenbach fight had removed a great deal of loose currency from circulation and it went silent after the Tunney-Gibbons fight of last Friday night. When there are three big open-air fights in a stretch, the third one is likely to display an idiosyncrasy for boxoffice sickness.

Leonard Victim.
Benny Leonard was a noted victim of knuckle weakness. Just before one of his big fights he suffered a very grave bilateral attack and sent pictures to the papers showing both of his hands in slings. It must have cost Leonard at least $2 for bandages to promote that case of knuckle weakness, but it was worth while, for he got out of the bout and saved the title which is still his source of livelihood.

Joe Lynch, an amateur pugilist, the pious, incurred the most interesting case of dog trouble that ever came into the clinic. Joe, who was matched with the weight of the fowls, and closed as such as the birds leave, thus promoting the cause of the chicken, was in the middle of a fight with a rooster, when he slipped and broke his leg, or, if the disease is not several months.

There have been many other interesting cases, too intricate for the lay, or sap, mind.

Mr. Kearns says Walker may be able to fight by July 2. That is two weeks beyond the original date. In the meantime Walker may develop a broken leg, or, if the disease is not boxoffice sickness, the cash register may have recovered its voice.

DUNDEE BOUT RAINED OUT
New York, June 9.—Rain tonight forced the postponement of the open-air boxing show at the new Coney Island stadium at which Johnny Dundee and Sird Terrie, New York lightweights, were to have met in a 15-round bout. The promoters tentatively chose next Friday night as their new date.

JAYCEE GOLF TOURNAMENT OPENS

Qualifying rounds in the annual golf tournament held by the Junior Chamber of Commerce began today over the Druid Hills course. The rounds in the match play will start on June 15. The 32 low scores in the qualifying rounds will compose the championship flight and the 16 defeated in this round will form the first flight.

This tournament causes considerable interest among golfing circles each year, and there is always a large entry list. According to Leon Williams, secretary of the J. C. 80 have registered already and indications point to a registry of about 125. The entrance fee is $1.50, and may be paid to Leon Williams or at the club to George Clayton, chairman of the golf committee.

Beautiful and valuable prizes have been contributed by all of the sporting goods houses in the city. There will be a prize for the winner and for the runner-up in each flight. A large loving cup has been given by Latham and Atkinson to be presented to the winner of the championship flight. This trophy must be won three years before it becomes the permanent possession of the winner.

Besides winning this trophy, the winner will be presented with a free trip to the national J. C. convention, which is to be held during the latter part of the summer in Tulsa, Okla.

STEVENS KILLS FOOTBALL MENU

New York, June 9.—Football has been abolished by the authorities of Stevens Institute of Technology at Hoboken, N. J., and the schedule for this year has been abandoned. A special committee said the adoption of "open play" has resulted in a large increase in the number of injuries and consequent interference with studies and has necessitated year-round training for candidates for the squad.

At the end of last season several well known coaches suggested that the rules be changed and even favored elimination of the forward, contending that the open style of football has brought weak eleven through to victory.

Fittery and Cavet Go Down; McLaughlin Slated To Oppose Enemy Today

BY GEORGE CONGDON.
Hollis McLaughlin, a right-handed pitcher, will be started against the Nashville Volunteers today by Bert Niehoff.

Two left-handers tried yesterday to subdue the ball-playing gents controlled by Jimmy Hamilton. Paul Fittery pitched four and two-third innings and gave up eight hits. Pug Cavet, gave up seven in the other four and one-third. The result was a whopping 12-to-7 win for the Vols that kept the Crackers from gaining further on the New Orleans Pels for first place in the Martin derby.

It wasn't any particularly brilliant baseball that won for Nashville. It wasn't any bunch of glaring muffs by the home outfit. Yesterday's melee was just an ordinary game, with plenty of free hitting, in which one side made its hits count for plenty of runs while the other busted flat with two or three on in two or three innings.

That's how Olsen, Nashville relief pitcher, won his game. He set the Crackers down with men on but not by any dazzling pitching with strikeouts strung out like the legs of a centipede.

Mike Too Anxious.
Mike Gazella got a couple of hits yesterday, but he muffed a couple of chances for putouts that helped the Vols in nipping up their lead on the home club. Mike got over-ambitious again today, trying to look after Fittery's job in the field the way he frequently tries to handle the field as shortstop. The result today was a base hit, when he raced in, gave Fittery the sign and backed off to let the ball drop to the ground untouched.

Rod Murphy had a perfect day swinging the stick. He smacked one double and four singles in five times up. Wilbur Good helped his standing, too, by getting three out of five. Olsen helped to win his game by three hits in three times up and Eichrodt pitched three hits in five times at the bat.

Red Smith didn't do so badly in the hitting line, for he was only charged with three times at bat and hit twice, once for two bases. Two other times he came to the plate he was purposely walked, the second time to fill the bases. Hamilton apparently knew what he was doing, for both times the Crackers were held.

Heavy Hitters Even.
Murderers' row on both clubs looked about the same yesterday. Davis, Strohm, Tolson and Eichrodt easily matched the performance of Zoeller, Murphy, Good, Cullop and Smith, and, on top of that, assaulted the apple Smith, rf. Good slammed a double, scoring Frankie and sending Murphy to third. Cullop beat out an infield hit and Smith socked one to left, cleaning the sacks. Brock doubled, scoring Smith with the sixth run of the inning. Olsen began his work after Smith's hit.

The Vols counted one more in the fourth on Mackey's single, a hit by Olsen and an infield out, on but the Crackers matched it on Murphy's

Impressive Ceremony Unites Miss Holmes and Mr. Cooledge

A wedding of unusual interest throughout the state was that of Miss Suellette Holmes and Edwin Martin Cooledge, which was a beautiful event of Tuesday evening, taking place at the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church at 8:30 o'clock. The impressive ceremony was performed by Dr. Ashby Jones, pastor of the church.

The church, where the ceremony took place, was converted into a bower of loveliness by stately palms, ferns and southern smilax. At intervals were placed three graceful standing vases of white peonies, and alternating with these were two twelve-branched candelabra holding tall burning tapers.

Before the entrance of the wedding party beautiful nuptial music was played by the organist, C. W. Diekmann, and Mrs. Harold Cooledge rendered "At Dawnings" her lovely contralto voice adding to the beauty of the occasion.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march.

Bridal Party.
The first to enter were the ushers, who came in down the center aisle. P. J. Cooledge, Jr., and Lowry Nicholson preceding Sam Carson and Osborn Chambers. Miss Sarah Rich first bride's maid, and Zach Clark, first groomsmen, who entered together, separating at the altar, and ascending the side aisle. Miss Cullen, the side maid, followed by the bridesmaids. Miss Rich was given in a lovely model of Nile green satin, made with a close-fitting bodice and a full skirt with a deep flounce of lovely lace at the bottom. Her headpiece was a tiara of silver, and her hair was made up in a bun of silver, and she carried a flat arm bouquet of pink primroses tied with pink tulle.

Miss Mary Reid and Norman Cooledge entered next, down opposite aisles, crossing at the altar to ascend the steps. Miss Reid's gown was a beautiful model of rose pink tulle, made with a tight bodice which was finished at the neck line with a cream lace bertha. The gown was trimmed with tiny blue roses, and the full skirt had a deep flounce of lovely lace at the bottom. Her headpiece was a tiara of silver, and her hair was made up in a bun of silver, and she carried a flat arm bouquet of pink primroses tied with pink tulle.

Entering next down the two side aisles came Miss Catherine Cullen and Lewis Rosser. Miss Cullen's lovely frock was of deep orchid tulle, made with a close-fitting bodice and a full skirt with a deep flounce of lovely lace at the bottom. Her headpiece was a tiara of silver, and her hair was made up in a bun of silver, and she carried a flat arm bouquet of pink primroses tied with pink tulle.

Following next down the two side aisles came Miss Catherine Cullen and Lewis Rosser. # GEORGIA CLUBWOMEN OPEN SESSIONS AT TALLULAH

Mrs. A. P. Brantley, President, Delivers Stirring Address

Editor Woman's Department, Atlanta Constitution
LEAD GEORGIA CLUBWOMEN
 Tallulah Falls, Ga., June 8.—(Special.)—The Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs opened its first biennial council here tonight by dedicating itself to the advancement of the Tallulah Falls Industrial school, for which it has recently completed a $300,000 campaign.

The remarkable growth of the school—the only institution of its kind owned by a state federation, was stressed in the addresses delivered at the initial sessions today. Tomorrow five new buildings, which have resulted from the unstinted efforts of Georgia women toward the advancement of education in the mountains of the state will be formally dedicated.

Another leading feature of Wednesday's program will be an address by Governor Clifford Walker, who arrived here today with Mrs. Walker. Governor Walker's address is eagerly anticipated, as he is expected to outline the "Greater Georgia" program which he will recommend before the next session of the legislature.

Mrs. Brantley Speaks.
 Mrs. A. P. Brantley, president of the Georgia Federation, in a stirring address, pictured the swift development of the school and paid special tribute for its advancement to Mrs. Mary Lipscomb, Mrs. Hugh Willett, Mrs. John K. Ottley and Miss Nannie C. Davis, its principal.

Among those who opened the program for welcome addresses were Mrs. S. B. C. Morgan, Savannah, honorary president of the board of trustees; Mrs. Z. J. Fitzpatrick, Madison; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, Atlanta; Dr. J. C. Dover, Clayton, representing Rabun county, and F. M. Reeves, Clarksville, representing Habersham county. Mrs. T. H. Nimmons, LaGrange and Mayor Walter Sims, Atlanta, responded.

"Character first" has been the slogan of the Tallulah Falls school from the beginning and is today its watchword," said Mrs. Brantley, in her address before several hundred clubwomen assembled in the Isma Dooly auditorium of the school.

"Every department," continued Mrs. Brantley, "is stressing character first. It's physical equipment was the ideal of the builders of the school, for they realized that there could be no true womanliness or manliness developed in an unattractive school, with unfit furnishings, and to this end there has been provided these beautiful buildings, comfortably furnished. We must have character first in our teachers and the quality of work required. This is evidenced by the high standing of our students when they go to other schools. Character first in the students themselves—this is the beginning and the end of the whole subject. There is no building of true character except in an atmosphere of true and unselfish associations, and all these have been provided our pupils.

High Standards Set.
 High standards have been set, not by mere lecturing about standards and culture, but by providing in officers and teachers, examples of high type and by encouraging and rewarding such qualities in the students themselves. "It is our aim," said the president, "to do all in our power to have real workers and leaders in the true work of the commonwealth, for in educating our pupils, we have borne in mind the fact that a woman makes her so effective as a home-maker, that she takes to the function as a joy, and performs its duties with such ease that she has large leisure for other occupations. Her education gives her the information and habits of thought and action in fields that make her service there quickly felt. It has even been the purpose of the Tallulah school to so educate its pupils as to realize in them and preserve in them a constructive and progressive way, the ideals and standards of the best manhood and womanhood of Georgia, that they might be preserved from one generation to the next. This is an undertaking of our best efforts and challenging our best skill and devotion to the school. Such a task requires careful planning to put forward its elements into practical shape, and persistent effort to promote the proper means and equipment to meet them.

"Happy Is the People."
 "Happy is the people whose educational institutions have served them truly by implanting in their habit of thinking; whose schools and colleges and universities have filled the minds of their people with information broad and varied, and have taught them how to use this information as data of thought; to test it and apply it to solving the needs of the commonwealth. Most unfortunate is the people whose schools have failed to function or have functioned inadequately. There is no escape from the ills that beset them. Georgia leaders have been firm believers in educational activities. Good schools, good colleges, strong and vigorous, were taken seriously by these leaders who patronized them by the youth who attended them."

Mrs. Brantley's Address Is Notable.
 The address of Mrs. Brantley was notable in its splendid presentation of the cause of education and the ideals of the Tallulah Falls school. She dwelt with pride on the progress of the physical plant, from a rough, weatherbeaten shack to the modern, well built school house, and now a campus of buildings. But she used as the greatest asset the development of character, culture and refinement in educational activities. Good schools, good colleges, strong and vigorous, were taken seriously by these leaders who patronized them by the youth who attended them."

Tuesday's Program.
 Georgia club women registered for Tuesday's program. The program will include a dedication of the new buildings, a presentation of the school's progress, and a luncheon at the school.

BEAUTY CHATS
 BY EDNA E. FORBES.

TEETH
 So many troubles have been traced to the teeth lately, that most good doctors are sending their patients for thorough dental examinations whenever they suspect any sort of septic center in the system. A tooth with a dead nerve, or a crown tooth, can be the cause of such apparently unrelated troubles as boils or senemia, or even worse ailments, and of any number of minor complaints. Even the best dentist cannot trace these septic foci, as the doctors call them, without the aid of the X-ray.

So, if you have some stubborn physical trouble, and yet appear perfectly healthiest, teeth, as your physician or your dentist, whether an X-ray would not be advisable. For your comfort, in case you have never had it done, the taking of X-ray pictures is neither terrifying nor painful. You sit on the edge of a wood holding a tiny film, and the picture is taken without your knowing it at all or feeling anything.

Such a thorough examination of the teeth as only the X-ray can give, is good from both the health and the beauty point of view. To be good looking your mouth must have strong, clean, even teeth. With the X-ray's aid, your dentist can prevent troubles that might lead to false teeth and the resulting ugly sunken mouth. So, if possible, have this done, it is more than worth the expense.

To keep your teeth in good condition, use TETLEY'S Orange Pekoe Tea.

BENNING LAUNDRY EFFICIENTLY OPERATED

Columbus, Ga., June 9.—Following an investigation recently completed by a board of officers, which included a medical officer, of the government laundry at Fort Benning, near here, it was found that this government laundry was one of the most efficiently operated of some 40 similar laundries under the jurisdiction of the quartermaster corps.

The Fort Benning laundry is in charge of Colonel A. B. Warfield, quartermaster at the large infantry school, who is a former chief of the salvage division, in the office of the quartermaster general, Washington. This laundry is reputed to be outstanding among the 40 similar laundries operated by the government, and is said to be as modern and up-to-date as many of the larger civilian laundries.

The investigation into the operation of the Fort Benning laundry came as the result of criticism made by the army personnel at that station, and was ordered by the commandant.

Clean the teeth after breakfast and before bed, with a stiff brush having a blob on the end, so it will reach all the spaces between the teeth. Use an antiseptic gargle nightly.

 So many troubles have been traced to the teeth lately, that most good doctors are sending their patients for thorough dental examinations whenever they suspect any sort of septic center in the system. A tooth with a dead nerve, or a crown tooth, can be the cause of such apparently unrelated troubles as boils or senemia, or even worse ailments, and of any number of minor complaints. Even the best dentist cannot trace these septic foci, as the doctors call them, without the aid of the X-ray.

So, if you have some stubborn physical trouble, and yet appear perfectly healthiest, teeth, as your physician or your dentist, whether an X-ray would not be advisable. For your comfort, in case you have never had it done, the taking of X-ray pictures is neither terrifying nor painful. You sit on the edge of a wood holding a tiny film, and the picture is taken without your knowing it at all or feeling anything.

Such a thorough examination of the teeth as only the X-ray can give, is good from both the health and the beauty point of view. To be good looking your mouth must have strong, clean, even teeth. With the X-ray's aid, your dentist can prevent troubles that might lead to false teeth and the resulting ugly sunken mouth. So, if possible, have this done, it is more than worth the expense.

The Love Cycle

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

BY MILDRED BARBOUR.
 A SELF-MADE WRECK.

Meanwhile, Jane, all unconscious of Mansfield's plight, was working in New York.

She had become in a secretarial capacity shortly after her arrival, with a woman suffrage organization. It was not very long before her keen brain, allowed full rein for the first time, proved her ability to be far beyond her position. She became an executive in the organization and was commanding a salary which far exceeded any she had made before.

Her interest in her work kept her from thinking of Mansfield and the love which might have been hers if she had not denied herself. She had money to send to her mother, money enough to dress herself smartly, and to provide for a small apartment where she lived pleasantly and well. For the first time since the death of Jordan Marlowe, she was almost happy.

Ellis Haynes was the fly in the ointment. Though she had long ago discarded him as a husband, he persisted in annoying her. He would ring her up frequently at the suffrage headquarters. Often she found him lounging on a street corner when she came from work. She knew he followed her, and she used to try to round about ways home to avoid letting him know where she lived.

She could foresee what would happen if ever he found the comfortable little apartment she maintained. He would come and demand a home there as his right. She was a little sorry for him but more ashamed, for he had degenerated horribly in the past few years.

He now was undoubtedly a dope fiend. The inevitable transition from drink had made him an emaciated wreck. He who would have been the pink of perfection in his attire, was now untidy and shabby and down at the heel. His clothes were shabby and his linen was rarely clean.

Jane, her former affection for him dead, wondered at the change, but felt more pity for him than resentment against him. But after all, she reasoned, he was a self-made wreck. Look south, good looks, charm, opportunity all undeniably his, he had thrown them away for the lure of the primrose path.

One night when she found him waiting for her on the street corner, she told him that she must stop it. "It looks badly," she said, "remember I have a decent position to hold here and I can't have men waiting for me on street corners."

"You are ashamed of me," he declared sulkily. "It's because I don't look well-dressed. If you'd give me some money for clothes."

"You'd only spend it for drink or something worse," she replied gently. "I can't help you any more, Ellis. I have done all I could. Now, please go away and let's try to be happy, each in our own way."

He went grumblingly, but at the corner of the street, when she chanced to look back, she saw that he had stopped, and after a minute had retraced his steps and was following her.

She increased her pace but he followed suit, keeping a discreet distance behind her. She foresaw the inevitable scene if he should follow her to the door of her apartment, and was momentarily at a loss what to do.

Happening to note that she was at that moment passing the Waldorf, she recalled its several entrances and exits.

She started into one of these. Quickening her pace as much as possible without attracting undue attention, she managed to lose herself in the crowd passing up and down Peacock Alley.

Believing that she was now safe from pursuit, she was startled almost to the point of screaming when a hand was laid suddenly on her arm. To her relief when she whirled about, she found not Ellis Haynes' emaciated face, but the smiling one of a newspaperman who often visited suffrage headquarters for news.

"Why the rush, Mrs. Haynes? It's nice to see you after hours. Come and have a bite to eat with me." "Thanks, but I couldn't possibly," she said smilingly. "I'm famished for a little home food."

"By all means, do come," Jane invited. They left the hotel together by a north entrance and were walking up the street when a hand came down on the newspaperman's shoulder, and Ellis Haynes' voice said hoarsely: "Hey, what do you mean, going out with my wife?"

Quitman, Ga., June 9.—(Special.) Willie Jones, a 15-year-old negro boy, while displaying his ability to dive and swim, as two small sons of John Williams, a local farmer, and a local school teacher, drowned in the Withlacoochee river Monday at noon and although many have tried to locate the body it had not been recovered.

So great was the excitement at the Blue Springs Lumber company, near whose plant the drowning occurred, that Charles Young closed down the plant and sent all of his employees to the river to assist in diving for the body.

SLAMS SALAMS

By Louise Dooly

ATLANTA people raised their eyes a bit when we told them on our recent visit there that Asheville is going to have two weeks of grand opera this summer.

Lots of significant things musically are happening in this broad land of ours.

For instance, Queena Mario sailed the other day for Europe, to be the first American to sing on the Paris grand opera stage who has never had an hour of European training.

That's getting somewhere. "Atmosphere"—that the musician, the singer, can't be an artist till he gets it, and gets it in Europe—seems to be wearing itself out.

THEN to come back home for our cases. While Atlanta is raising her eyebrows over Asheville's enterprise in guaranteeing two whole weeks of opera in August, Atlanta's own music club announces a series of concerts for next season which might well be taken as an example of the growth of musical culture, not just locally, but as of American significance. Atlanta is far away from the centers of the musical world, and yet she has advanced far enough in appreciation for her music club to venture on a list of attractions including such things as this:

Seymour Oregan, contralto; Landowska, harpsichordist; Maier and Patterson, pianists; Eleanor Gerhardt, interpreter of song; the Flonzaley quartet, the San Francisco Chamber Music society and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

The first five to our mind are particularly noteworthy in this way: They have no circus advertising points.

The artists are just supreme artists, sensational not for escapades in their "private" lives, but only for the overwhelming character of their purely musical achievements.

Atlanta could not have risked it 10 years ago.

FOOD IN ITS SPIRITUAL ASPECTS

SPEAKING of musicians, there is Carlos Salzedo, one celebrated harpist and editor of "Eolus," who airs his views in a recent editorial on the kindred fine art of cooking, and the variance between the attitude an artist takes to the table in France and in America.

"Eolus" nation," says Mr. Salzedo, "has its own genius. America's is not in the kitchen. . . . American gastronomy and American orchestration suffer, it seems to me, from a lack of intellectual audacity. The tepid instruction of our music schools is like the flavorless food of our chain restaurants. (Mr. Salzedo is now an American.)

"In the matter of eating, to nourish is a minor function. It is perhaps practical to eat at an automaton. It may keep the worker alive at a small cost. But just to go on living is so unimportant. In France, the least little bouillon exhales an exciting odor. The mouth waters, the eyes brighten, the mind stirs. It is in these sympathetic eating places of France that most intellectual and artistic questions are discussed—to say nothing of the immortal soul! Poetry and problems would break in the brittle atmosphere of Childs'.

And there, Carlos, you said a mouthful. Quite Gallic in tone, isn't it? We mean what Carlos said. Not what we said.

TO CHANGE THE SUBJECT.

WE thought the species was extinct—women who still brush their hair 20 minutes daily.

But we met one in the flesh recently. O, yes. It pays. This particular crowning glory was silver gray, and it shone, and was as soft as a baby's. How does she find the time? Goodness knows! But it is always, you know, the busy woman—not just the one who talks about being busy—who can squeeze in one thing more.

THERE IS ONE LEFT.

THERE was another feminine phenomenon we observed about the same time.

It was a woman of absolute composure; one who seemed to be in complete control of herself—her mental processes, her nerves, even her motions—and doubtless her emotions, although we did not have opportunity to test out the last.

There was not a gesture to indicate restlessness—and we looked a long time. Maybe she does get irritable like the rest of us, but we are inclined to believe she'd have to be given good reason for it. It would have to be a case of righteous wrath.

We are thinking of Violet Oakley, the famous mural painter. We saw her during the exhibition of art works in Atlanta from the Central Art Gallery.

She might be classed among the art works herself.

The first time we laid eyes on her, we knew she was somebody out of the ordinary.

In the first place, she was not dressed like everybody else. Her costume did not conform to the style of the minute. You knew she had adopted the type of gown which she considered suitable to her type, as well as pleasing in itself. Even in that small way she showed the courage of her convictions. And yet, for a woman, it is not a small thing to rise superior to fashion.

We have seen that beautiful woman and great contralto, Margaret Matzenauer, do the same thing. In a performance by the Metropolitan Opera company of Samson and Delilah, her Delilah costume in each of the four acts followed one model. Variety was provided in different colors and different jewels. That one model was the perfect thing for the singer and was at the same time "of the period." Why experiment farther?

TO BE ONESELF.

TO return to Miss Oakley. Her very calmness would single her out in a restless world.

How many women are there in these bustling times who have that composure, that reserve, which can yet unbend and be gracious without gush?

Who can be true to themselves, no matter what the contrary is expected of them?

Who are not swept off their feet, whatever the surrounding wave of emotion.

In the midst of frivolity around her we saw her buried in thought. And yet she was no dash of cold water. She sat and smiled, like a gentle presiding genius over the harmless antics of children. And over her face, her quiet figure, was a brooding peace.

So—we would expect of her art no mere spurts of showy brilliance. Her creative spirit must be highly selective, highly imaginative, and sincere.

Pool operations were suspended in many issues for a greater part of the day because of the strike. The few that were successfully conducted in Wall Street were Baking A, Gimbel, Julius Kayser, Chandler and Brooklyn-Manhattan.
